Senate Refuses Action Today on Legal Beer Bill

Rejects Bingham's Motion for Immediate Debate on Measure
VOTE IS 48 TO 23
Ballot Not Regarded as Test of Strength on Bill Itself

BULLETIN
Washington—(P)—The senate today adjourned until next Tuesday, foregoing the regular 10 day holiday recess.

Washington—(P)—The senate refused to take up beer legislation today. It rejected a move by Senator Bingham (R., Conn.) aimed to get immediate consideration for the 3.2 beer bill passed by the house. The vote was 48 to 23.

The Democratic organization opposed Bingham's attempt on the ground that regular procedure of study by committee was desired.

The vote was decisively against the bill. Bingham's motion was defeated by a 48 to 23 vote. He had declared that if the measure went to the judiciary and finance committee for study and hearings, "it will just drag along."

"If it gets back here by the middle of February we'll be lucky," he said, adding that he felt the bill "couldn't be got through before March 4."

With the remark "I see nothing to be gained by having hearings," Bingham contended sufficient evidence had been gathered during the past year by various house and senate committees that had studied beer bills.

The vote was not considered by senate leaders a test on the beer issue, because many senators on both sides of the aisle insisted the beer bill should take the normal course of committee action.

Roll Call Vote
The roll call on the Bingham motion to take up the beer bill follows:

Republicans for the motion: Bingham, Blaine, Davis, Grammer, Johnson, LaFollette, Moses, Oddie, Schell, Shortridge, and Watson—11.
Democrats for: Bulkley, Coolidge, Copeland, Dill, Hawes, Lewis, Reynolds, Trammell, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Wheeler—12. Total for 23.

Republicans against: Austin, Borah, Capper, Carey, Couzens, Dale, Dickinson, Fess, Frazier, Hale, Hastings, Howell, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Patterson, Robinson of Indiana, Smoot, Thomas of Idaho, Vandenberg and White—21.
Democrats against: Ashurst, Bailey, Bankhead, Barkley, Black, Cullum, Byrnes, Caraway, Cohen, Connally, Costigan, George, Gore, Harrison, Hayden, Hull, Kendrick, King, Logan, McGill, McKellar, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Smith, Thomas of Oklahoma, and Walsh of Montana—26.

Farmer-Labor against: Shipstead, Minnesota—1. Total 48.

As the vote was announced Senator Robinson of Arkansas, asked if it was possible to send the Bingham bill to committee.

Senator Fess (R., Ohio), temporarily presiding, ruled this could not be done.

Charging Bingham with attempting to take "partisan advantage," Robinson denied the Democrats were delaying the beer legislation.

Up to Committee
Robinson said there were legal and constitutional questions involved and he felt it should go to committee.

He said he "believed that no wholesome end will be accomplished by taking up the bill of the senator from Connecticut" under the circumstances.

Bingham explained he made his motion in order to speed action, fearing prolonged delay if the beer legislation had to take the usual committee course.

Replying to Robinson, Bingham said he made his motion in the belief that it would be a test of strength on the bill itself.

Man Perishes, 30 Are Missing in Fire in Chicago

Six Story Grain Elevator Destroyed With $1,000,000 Loss

Chicago—(P)—One man was fatally burned today and firemen made frantic efforts to find 30 others missing as flames raged in a six story grain elevator on the south branch of the Chicago river.

The wooden elevator and its 200,000 bushels of wheat, corn, oats and barley became a torch, its flames reaching 100 feet above the tower, soon after a severe dust explosion blew out a portion of the building.

Their battle to subdue the blaze hopeless, firemen spent their efforts to prevent its spread to a larger concrete elevator nearby where a million bushels of grain was stored.

Walter Brazel was the only man known to be dead. He was blown from the building to river docks below.

Three others were burned badly and rushed to hospitals. When the fire broke out 34 persons were known to have been working in the structure, owned by the Santa Fe railroad. Whether all of these escaped the flames or were caught within could not be told.

Loss of the elevator, its machinery and grain was estimated by elevator company officials at $1,000,000. The grain itself was worth $75,000, property of the Stratton Grain Co., whose secretary, H. F. Obermeyer, said it was protected by insurance.

Shortly after noon the west wall, which had been tottering and menacing the fire raged alongside in the river, collapsed into the stream and sent up clouds of steam. A red river of burning grain flowed down the banks. A moment later the north wall also fell and buried the small one-story brick building housing the elevator company's office.

Thousands of spectators were drawn to the fire, and traffic was snarled with the 40 fire trucks and hundreds of automobiles jamming nearby thoroughfares.

H. L. Wilson, Former Ambassador, Is Dead

Indianapolis—(P)—Henry Lane Wilson, former United States minister to Chile and Belgium, and ambassador to Mexico prior to his retirement in 1914, is dead.

In poor health for several years, the 76-year-old diplomat died at his home here late yesterday after an illness of five days with pneumonia. He will be buried in Crown Hill cemetery after funeral services here next Monday morning.

Appointed by President McKinley in 1897 to the post in Chile, Mr. Wilson's diplomatic service was continuous through the next 17 years. During that period, he aided in bettering relations between the United States and Chile, and was in charge of the embassy in Mexico through the troubled administrations of Diaz, de la Barra, Madero and Huerta. He resigned in 1914 because he differed with the Democratic administration of Woodrow Wilson as to the policy toward Mexico.

Two Bodies Taken From Mine in Pennsylvania

Scranton, Pa.—(P)—Rescue gangs today removed the bodies of two men from workings of the Lackawanna mine, a branch of the Coalbrook colliery, at Simpson, where a cave-in and squeeze occurred last night. A third man was seriously hurt and three other miners escaped. Mine workers said six men were engaged in robbing pillars in the mine when the accident occurred.

CONVICTION UPHELD
Springfield, Ill.—(P)—Conviction of Evans Anderson, former cashier of the Security National Bank of Rockford, on charges of embezzling $17,970 was upheld by the supreme court here today.

Two Men Hurt In Eruption At Soap Plant

Carl Kampf and Ferdinand Nolte Severely Burned by Liquid

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Former Injured About Head—Latter Less Seriously Hurt

Two employees of the John Heinz-kill soap laboratories at 813 W. College-ave are in serious condition at St. Elizabeth hospital with burns received at 10 o'clock this morning when a vat of concentrated sodium hydroxide erupted. The entire plant was filled with steam and the laboratory was drenched with the hot liquid, but the damage was slight.

Carl Kampf, 27, 909 W. Lawrence-st was the most seriously injured. His head was scalded by the strong chemical and he lost the sight of his left eye. He also was badly burned about the body.

Ferdinand Nolte, 30, Appleton, suffered severe burns about the face, shoulders, arms and legs.

The two men, working alone in the laboratory, were introducing flaked caustic soda into a solution of concentrated sodium hydroxide, when the mixture exploded. It is believed too much of the soda fell into the vat at one time, forming a gas.

The bodies of the men were immediately treated with vinegar, a mild acid to neutralize the strong base or hydroxide. They were taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Tobacco Pool Borrows To Pay 1931 Growers

Madison—(P)—The Northern Wisconsin Tobacco pool announced today that it will borrow $1,530,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and two banks to pay growers for the 1931 tobacco crop and to continue the pool operations.

The loans have been authorized by the R. F. C. and the directors of the pool, at a meeting late yesterday instructed the management to complete the transaction.

Emerson Eila, director of the pool, said there are many details to be ironed out before the money will be made available but that the growers will be paid on their 1931 crop at the earliest possible time.

The R. F. C. will carry $1,100,000 of the loan and the balance will be taken by two banks which are now carrying the pool for large sums.

Two Under Arrest For Slaying Child

Itinerant Preachers Choke Girl in Effort to "Drive Out Devil"

Linden, Texas—(P)—Despite a purported confession, officers today continued an investigation of the death of a 5-year-old girl, allegedly at the hands of two itinerant preachers who sought to "drive out the devil" believed responsible for her partial paralysis.

Murder charges were filed against the two—Paul Oaks and his brother Coy Oaks—and precautions taken to prevent possible mob vengeance. Sheriff Nat Curtwright said the two accused men, described by him as of the Apostolic faith, admitted they had choked the child to death in an attempt to cure her.

Officers said the preachers came to Cass-co several months ago from another section of Texas, had been holding meetings in rural communities and had preached on the subject of faith healing. The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clayton, allegedly was killed last Tuesday at the Clayton home.

From Chicago, Illinois, a neighbor of the Claytons, officers said they received information as to how the child died. Wilson said he found two men kneeling over the prostrate form of the child. They ordered him to leave, declaring he was a "devil." He said the child's father was in the room.

Dr. O. R. Taylor, Cass-co health officer, said the child had been choked to death.

A preliminary hearing for the brothers was set for Dec. 26.

Dynamite Is Found In Christmas Package

Stevens Point—(P)—Two sticks of dynamite were found in a Christmas package here yesterday by Joe Eiden, janitor.

Police are at a loss to know for whom the bomb was intended. The dynamite was wrapped in newspapers and packed in a cigar box, which was covered with Christmas paper. A 16-foot fuse was curled inside the box, which contained an opening at one end large enough for the fuse to pass.

Car Driven by Waupaca Man Kills Custer Girl

Stevens Point—(P)—Antoinette Golonski, 5, daughter of John Golonski of Custer, was killed last night when she was struck by a car driven by Claude Hinchey of Waupaca. Hinchey said the girl ran in front of the car and he was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting her.

A. Hutchinson of Weyauwega, owner of the automobile, was a passenger with Hinchey.

Timber Wolves in Manitoba Attack Humans for Food

The Pas, Man.—(P)—Timber wolves, in large packs in search of food made scarce by the early winter, are on trail of humans in the north country.

Barney Goodman, a trapper, said he had a narrow escape from death while returning from the trap lines a week ago.

Goodman said he was musing over Simon House lake, near Cranberry Portage, Man., when a pack of 15 wolves picked up his trail and soon were in howling pursuit after he and his sledge dogs fled over miles of frozen lake.

Finally the trappers dogs jumped a strip of water caused by an ice crack. Afraid of the open water, the wolves circled it, and by the time they made the detour, Goodman and his dogs were safely in the cabin.

Until dawn, the wolves howled outside, circling a path in the deep snow about the building. The pack fled at daylight when the trapper fired several shots.

Youthful Slayer Wins Third Trial In Lengthy Battle

Supreme Court of Illinois Grants Russell McWilliams Venue Change

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—Russell McWilliams, 17-year-old Rockford slayer, twice sentenced to die in the electric chair, today won a new trial as the supreme court reversed his case, and ordered a change of venue to another court for a third trial.

McWilliams, when 16 years old, shot and killed a Rockford street car conductor, William Sayles, in a hold-up Aug. 29, 1931.

He was sentenced to death on his plea of guilty. His age attracted the attention of numerous social workers who, enlisting the support of Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal attorney and foe of capital punishment, carried the case to the supreme court and won a new trial.

At the second trial the youth sought to change his plea from guilty to not guilty but Circuit Judge Fisher, again presiding, refused to permit this action and also denied a change of venue, and imposed the death penalty again.

Today's opinion directing a change of venue was written by Justice Frederic DeYoung of Chicago. In part it was as follows:

"Statutory provisions authorizing a change of venue upon conditions prescribed should receive a liberal and not a strict construction. Such statutes should be construed to promote rather than to defeat the right to a change of venue, especially where prejudice on the part of the judge is charged. In a criminal case, if the petition for a change of venue, on account of the prejudice of the judge, and the affidavits accompanying the petition, are in compliance with the statutes, the right of the defendant to a change of venue is absolute."

Democrats Outline Stand on Promotions

Washington—(P)—Senate Democrats were called into conference today to determine which of the nominations President Hoover has submitted should be considered "routine promotions" and allowed to be confirmed.

The Democrats have served notice that no appointments other than "routine promotions" in the military services, public health service and coast guard will be approved at the present session.

Although the question of nominations was said by leaders to be the prime reason for the conference, other matters were expected to be discussed.

Navy Brings Christmas Cheer to 2,000 Children

San Pedro, Calif.—(P)—Uncle Sam's navy will see that 2,000 needy children are visited by Santa Claus this Christmas. It was announced that $45,000 had been raised by contributions from among the officers and crews of the 32 major fighting ships at anchor in San Pedro harbor.

REFUSES APPOINTMENT
Madison—(P)—David E. Lillenthal, member of the State Public Service commission today informed Governor LaFollette, that he "cannot accept appointment as a director of the state utility corporation, an organization created by the last legislature."

19 Dead, 18 Hurt, 32 Missing in Tokio Fire

Tokio—(P)—Nineteen persons were dead, 18 injured and 32 still unaccounted for as police continued a search for bodies in a fire which razed a tenement section today in the Fukagawa slum district of Tokio. The majority of the casualties were Korean coolies.

Twenty tenements housing 92 families were destroyed within half an hour after the blaze started, before dawn.

Woman Baffled in Her Effort to Leap to Death

Chicago—(P)—Dangling from the roof of the Psychopathic hospital for 20 minutes, a woman patient gave a crowd of spectators a thrill and gave attendants a furious battle as they tried to rescue her today.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Miller, 44, had tied to the roof and dashed to the edge, attendants in pursuit. They grasped her wrist as she leaped, and held her determinedly despite her efforts to break free. Firemen arrived in time to raise ladders and take the woman down.

Start Suit to Forfeit Robber Suspect's Bond

Chicago—(P)—Chief Justice John J. Sonstby of the municipal court said suit would be started today in the bond court to recover on the $5,000 bond provided by George Berman, who failed to appear several days ago at a hearing on his extradition to Milwaukee on a $47,000 bank robbery charge.

It was Judge Sonstby who reduced an original bond of $50,000 set in the case by Judge Jay A. Schiller following Berman's arrest on a fugitive warrant issued in Milwaukee.

Ice Cathedral Standing up Under Weather Assault

The Ice Cathedral is manfully withstanding the onslaughts of the weatherman, but it is a question of how long the unequal battle can continue. Yesterday's warm sun, last night's rain and today's thawing temperatures all are having their effect upon the ice walls.

The ground about the building is so slippery that it will be advisable for people not to walk up to the structure tonight.

Much can be said for ice that has withstood the punishment of the last two days without more serious evidences of disintegration. Only the surface has been affected so far; the centers of the ice cakes

Farm Woman Confesses She Killed Father

Says Abusiveness Toward Her and Mother Led To Fatal Shooting

FIRST HELD SUICIDE

Location of Fatal Wound Prompted Suspicion And Further Probe

Chippewa Falls—(P)—Beulah Huff, 27-year-old farm woman, late yesterday confessed to District Attorney Clarence E. Rinehard that she shot and killed her father, State Huff, as he sat at the dinner table, Nov. 15.

Authorities had reached the tentative conclusion that Huff had committed suicide. But suspicions persisted because the aged farmer had been shot in the back of his head. A victim of rheumatism, it would have been extremely difficult for him to shoot himself in that manner.

Rinehard and Sheriff John Hepler continued an inquiry in which they were assisted by one of Huff's sons, John, a farmer who lives near Boyd.

Weeping and emotionally upset, Miss Huff sobbed out an incoherent story yesterday.

For several years, she said, her father had been abusive. She and her mother made an unsuccessful effort to have him committed to some state institution for the mentally defective. That plan went awry because Huff's sons said they never have any trouble with their father.

Authorities learned that some time before Nov. 15, Miss Huff had purchased a pistol at a Chippewa Falls hardware store.

Describes Shooting
On the day of the killing, the daughter said, she, her mother and her sister, Mrs. E. D. Lane, ate a noon day dinner with her father. There was considerable hickering, she said.

The women decided to leave for a shopping tour in Chippewa Falls. They left the house and went some distance when Beulah decided to return for a coat. Her father still sat at the table, she said, and the shooting occurred then.

She rejoined her mother and sister, did her shopping and came back to the farm. The body was at the table, and sheriff's deputies called it suicide.

Beulah was reluctant to cooperate with officials investigating the death. John Huff asked officials to give her several days time to talk with his sister. He walked into the district attorney's office yesterday with the laconic remark:

"Well, she's confessed."

The daughter was charged with first degree murder and was remanded to jail. A preliminary hearing before County Judge Dayton E. Cook is scheduled for Dec. 29.

WORKED AT ASYLUM
Jefferson, Wis.—(P)—Officials at the county asylum here said today that Beulah Huff, charged with the murder of her father at Chippewa Falls, had been employed at the asylum for about a year, starting in August, 1930. She was succeeded by her sister, Noda, who worked until last Tuesday when she was called home. Beulah and her mother were located here Dec. 15 by Sheriff John C. Gravel at the request of Dist. Atty. Charles E. Rinehard of Chippewa Falls. They had been staying at the home of William Fein.

Father and Son Bound And Robbed by Two Men

Fond du Lac—(P)—Authorities today were seeking two men, who yesterday bound and robbed Mike Brown and his 16-year-old son, Ambrose, in their farm near Mount Cavalry yesterday.

Father and son were trussed, gagged and left in a bed room. The robbers rifled a safe and many drawers, but found only a small sum of cash and a pistol.

Ambrose rolled over to his father, got a jackknife from his pocket and cut the ropes which held them.

Prepare to Draft Bill Halting Foreclosures Of Badger Mortgages

French Premier Starts New Debt Confab With U.S.

Paul-Boncour Makes Unexpected Visit to American Ambassador

Paris—(P)—Premier Paul-Boncour suddenly and dramatically virtually launched debt negotiations with America today by personally calling upon United States Ambassador Edge at the embassy.

He asked that Mr. Edge take the matter up with Washington so that France may help in reaching a solution of the debts question.

Mr. Edge had let it be known to M. Paul-Boncour that he would be pleased if the premier could receive him so that he, Edge, might convey his respects to the new premier and foreign minister.

The foreign office sent no reply to this request during the day. Suddenly and without giving any notice beforehand M. Paul-Boncour accompanied by Pierre de Fomquiere, director of protocol, arrived at the embassy chancellery in the Rue Chailot and asked to see Mr. Edge.

For half an hour M. Paul-Boncour and Mr. Edge thrashed out the entire debt problem.

Favors Action
Information from American sources indicated that M. Paul-Boncour frankly expressed a desire to receive any assistance possible from the embassy and the Washington government which would enable him to take up the debt question with the chamber of deputies and enable the government and the chamber to reach a solution of the question as soon as possible.

It is stated there was no mincing of words throughout the conference which was characterized by the finest spirit of good will on both sides, and that the conversations did a great deal to clear the atmosphere.

Apparently M. Paul-Boncour refrained from making any predictions as to when the chamber might alter its attitude concerning postponement of the December interest payment.

However, it was understood, he did intimate to Mr. Edge his fervent hope that Mr. Edge would take the matter up with the Washington government so that negotiations might be continued uninterrupted.

Farm Garage Is Burned to Ground

Black Creek Fire Department Saves Nearby Buildings

A two-story house, which had been converted into a garage, on the George Smith farm, four miles southwest of Black Creek, burned to the ground about 4:15 Thursday afternoon. The village fire department was called and fought the blaze with chemicals, but could not save the building nor any of the contents. The fire is thought to have started from an old touring car which had been driven into the garage about a half hour earlier, as the car was in flames when the fire was first discovered. Oil amounting to about $50 was destroyed in the fire as well as tools, window screens and storm windows.

The loss, which is estimated at about $1,000 is partly covered by insurance. The fire department, which remained on duty until about 5:30, succeeded in saving a shed which was only four feet from the dwelling. Had the shed caught fire, the house and barn probably would have burned.

Chicago—(P)—Dangling from the roof of the Psychopathic hospital for 20 minutes, a woman patient gave a crowd of spectators a thrill and gave attendants a furious battle as they tried to rescue her today.

To Resign

Washington—(P)—F. K. A. Eble, commissioner of customs, is expected to resign his post within a few weeks and return to Berlin as treasury attaché, the position he held before being promoted to his present duties. The commissioner has applied to the civil service commission for reinstatement and the application has been granted which would make him eligible for reappointment to the Berlin position which now is vacant.

Power Company Must Pay Costs Of Investigation

Notice of Assessment Is Filed by Public Service Commission

The Wisconsin Public Service commission today filed notice with the Wisconsin Michigan Power company that the expenses of a formal investigation of the books, accounts and practices of the company and an appraisal of its property will be assessed against the firm. On Dec. 14 the company, through R. E. Moody, vice president and general manager, filed a voluntary application for the investigation.

In filing the petition for the investigation, Mr. Moody pointed out that there have been many demands for such a probe and that the action was taken so that the company and the communities it serves might have the benefit of a fair and impartial investigation.

An income account was filed with the petition showing that during the first 10 months of 1932 the rate of return to the firm on its capital investment has been at the rate of 4.13 per cent per year. Mr. Moody said the valuation on which the return is figured was approved by the public service commission, and since such approval the only additions to the property and plant account have consisted of actual net expenditures for improvements.

Mrs. H. G. Freeman Dies This Morning

Widow of Appleton Manufacturer Succumbs Suddenly at Her Home

Mrs. H. G. Freeman, 101 E. Lawrence-st, died suddenly at her home early Friday morning.

Born in Appleton, the daughter of Reeder and Eliza Smith, she married Hiram G. Freeman, who died in December, 1926. One daughter, Mrs. Angeline Freeman Kitson, and a grandson, Dexter Freeman, Kitson, survive.

The funeral service will be held Monday afternoon at the home, with burial in Riverside cemetery. The Rev. H. E. Feabody will be in charge.

Find Automobile Used By Two During Holdup

Bacone—(P)—The automobile used by two men who shot and seriously injured Matt Matson, grocer, in a holdup Monday night, was found yesterday in Chicago, the car belonged to Herman Pearson, who was abducted and forced to accompany the men to the holdup in which Matson was shot.

Paul-Boncour Wins Support From Deputies

Real Test of Cabinet Still To Come When Finance Chief Reports

Paris—(AP)—Without a battle or even a skirmish, Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour has obtained a substantial majority in the chamber of deputies, authorizing him to pursue debt negotiations within limits already set by its votes, and approving other items in his program.

As far as was ascertainable, however, few, if any, deputies knew of the Hoover-Roosevelt correspondence made public yesterday, before they voted. (President Hoover abandoned his plan to reopen the debt question with European countries, postponing action on the problem until after President-elect Roosevelt's inauguration.)

The good impression made by M. Paul-Boncour in the chamber was echoed in the press, generally today but it was observed the real test will come when Henry Cheron, the new minister of finance, produces his financial "medicine" in January, for which Socialist support was considered doubtful.

The newspaper Le Journal summed up the situation thus: "M. Paul-Boncour wished to form a comprehensive union of the forces of the left. He succeeded—after the present at least."

The Hoover-Roosevelt correspondence was given certain prominence in the morning papers but there were no comments published.

Vote 365 to 215.

The life of the Paul-Boncour government was prolonged by a vote of 365 to 215, cast last night after six hours' debate on the premier's program.

He announced debt negotiations with the United States would be conducted "with an extreme prudence" owing to the present political situation in that country. He bid his support of the chamber, which overruled Premier Herriot, on the debt issue last week, by declaring the chamber's debt stand "traced out" the course he would follow.

The chamber voted against making this month's payment to the United States until a new debt conference was assured.

Premier Paul-Boncour's position was still precarious because loss of Socialist support at any time would easily wipe out his majority. Socialists have 131 votes in the left bloc of 370 deputies which backed up M. Herriot until he demanded the debt payment.

The premier was himself a Socialist but quit the party to become an independent and his relations with them have become a matter of conjecture since he took over guidance of the government.

May Replace Claudel

A movement was under way today to have the new cabinet replace Ambassador Claudel at Washington by a younger man with a knowledge of changing conditions in the United States. Powerful influences were working to have M. Claudel, now 64 years old and ambassador since early in 1927, removed by the time President-elect Roosevelt takes office.

Count Charles de Chambrun, ambassador to Turkey, has been mentioned. The count was born in Washington, served at the embassy there during his early diplomatic career and since the war went to the United States with Marshal Foch and acted as charge d'affaires at Washington in 1922.

(A year ago reports reached New York that M. Claudel might be transferred to Berlin and replaced at Washington by Count de Chambrun.)

Another possible selection for ambassador was Andre Siegfried, whose book "The United States of Today" is regarded in France as a classic.

While Ambassador Claudel was praised by the political leaders seeking a change, he believed the time has come to send a new man to Washington to collaborate with the Democrats.

Four Flee From Chicago, Arrested in Milwaukee

Milwaukee—(AP)—Four youths whose conduct aroused suspicions of police last night took flight after they came to Milwaukee to escape the "heat" being applied to hoodlums in Chicago. In their hotel room officers found three shotguns and four automatic pistols. They gave their names as Dominick Bello, 36; Frank Laiton, 28; Frank Nagels, 26; and Joseph Liscandrello, 28.

Milwaukee—(AP)—A special committee of the common council today recommended that city employees be placed on a five day week beginning Feb. 6. The police department would be exempted.

13 Chicagoans Organize To Battle Superstition

Chicago—(AP)—At last something is going to be done for the looking glass industry.

A group of Chicagoans has organized a mirror smashing society, which will also do something in the way of uplift for the salt makers.

They're going to smash mirrors, spill salt and do the other things the superstitious believe will bring bad luck just to prove that they don't.

There are 13 charter members of the group and they call themselves the "Anti-Superstition Society."

For 13 days beginning Jan. 1 and ending Jan. 13 they are going to perform their ritual, and then sit down at a table and laugh at bad luck—that is provided they are able.

A QUADRUPLE PROBLEM FOR SANTA CLAUS

The Mahaney quadruplets—Lydia, Edna, John and Edith—are busy writing Santa Claus what to bring them this year. And they're pretty confident of getting what they want, because, having been born on Christmas Day in 1929, they consider themselves a special responsibility of the good Saint. Incidentally, these children of Mr. and Mrs. William Mahaney of St. Johns, New Brunswick, are said to be the oldest living quadruplets on the North American continent.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

WHEN DIPLOMACY IS TOO OPEN

Mr. Hoover's proposal to set up a commission to deal with war debts, armaments, currencies and tariffs raises a number of important questions about the conduct of diplomacy among democracies. It is a subject about which little is known. For democratic diplomacy is a new thing in the world. Until the war the voters and their elected representatives played a small part in international affairs.

British diplomacy was the province of the British ruling class and of the permanent officials of the Foreign Office. On the continent of Europe the power exercised by the German, Austrian and Russian empires was wielded by a relatively small number of men. The United States had not yet become a world power; its foreign policy, largely confined to the region of the Pacific and of the Caribbean, was not of much interest to the people at large.

The war brought the people into diplomacy by showing them how their fortunes and their lives were involved in the consequences of diplomatic decisions. But there did not exist, and there does not yet exist, a workable system of democratic diplomacy. A very large part of the history of the world since the peace conference at Paris has been determined by the fact that masses of voters in many countries could not understand each other quickly enough to allow their governments to deal realistically with reconstruction after the devastation of the war.

The discovery of ways in which democratic diplomacy can be conducted is one of the great tasks of our generation. The discovery is not an easy one. It will be made, no doubt, by the slow and painful process of trial and error.

The ideal of democratic diplomacy was stated by Woodrow Wilson in his Fourteen Points. It was not invented by Mr. Wilson; historical circumstances had made the participation of the people in diplomacy a reality when Mr. Wilson wrote his Fourteen Points, what he did was to put in words the necessary logic of events. It is interesting to recall the language of this great statement.

Open covenants of peace, openly arrived at, after which there shall be no private international understandings of any kind, but diplomacy shall proceed always frankly and in the public view.

Like almost all statements of principle this one can be understood only in the light of the actual conditions which prompted it. Mr. Wilson was denouncing the secret treaties which had played such a part in the alignment of Europe into two hostile coalitions and he was denouncing also the secret treaties made both by the Allies and by the Central Powers to divide up the spoils of victory. That was the target at which he was shooting. But, as so often happens in declarations of principle, Mr. Wilson said a little more than he really meant. The words "openly arrived at" and the dictum that diplomacy should always proceed "in the public view" seemed to say that confidential negotiations were to be prohibited.

Mr. Wilson had soon to correct this. When the time arrived to arrange the armistice with Germany, the American representative, Colonel House, was called upon to explain to Clemenceau, Lloyd George and the other Allied statesmen what each of the Fourteen Points meant. For the purposes of this explanation he used a memorandum, approved by President Wilson, in which the point about Open Covenants was interpreted as follows:

"The purpose is clearly to prohibit treaties, sections or understandings that are secret. The phrase 'openly arrived at' need not cause difficulty. In fact, the President explained to the Senate last winter that his intention was not to exclude confidential diplomatic negotiations involving delicate matters, but to insist that nothing which occurs in the course of such confidential negotiations shall be binding unless it appears in the final covenant made public to the world."

Thus it is plain that Mr. Wilson, the apostle of open diplomacy, was under no illusion about the necessity of confidential negotiations as the preliminary stage in diplomacy.

The experience of the post-war years has amply proved how indispensable to diplomatic success is preliminary confidential exploration, preparation and understanding. The world has witnessed, it has been said, nearly a hundred international conferences since the war; it would be difficult to name one which achieved anything where the main conclusion had not been tentatively agreed to before the floodlights of publicity were turned on.

Our own experience on this point is ample. The most successful diplomatic achievement of the Hoover Administration was, I suppose, the settlement of the Anglo-American dispute about naval parity. That success was prepared by confidential negotiations which preceded Mr. MacDonald's famous visit to the Rapaham. The visit advertised an agreement which in all its essentials had already been arrived at. No successful confidential negotiations preceded the London Naval Conference. No understanding was arrived at with France and Italy. And as a result the London Naval Conference did little more than to register the agreement reached before Mr. MacDonald went to Rapaham.

The Hoover Memorandum is a classic example of the danger of open diplomacy without confidential preparation. The failure to consult France at that time, though France was the principal creditor apart from ourselves, not only ruined the effects of the memorandum but set in motion a train of events which are the real cause of the present French default.

For the French became unanimously convinced that the memorandum broke irreparably Germany's will to pay, and that without being consulted they were deprived of the assets they had counted upon to meet their own debts. There can be little doubt in retrospect that those Americans were right who advised the President to consult France in June 1931.

In the light of this history it is hard to see what good could be accomplished by setting up immediately a commission authorized to settle virtually all the great unsettled questions of the Western World. Nothing can be done, I believe, by creating commissions and calling conferences until substantial agreement on all the main points is reasonably certain. For an international conference in its public aspects is either a show in which the diplomats publish agreements already arrived at, or it is an arena in which they aggravate their disputes by proclaiming them to the world. No one who has any first-hand acquaintance with international conferences would, I think, hesitate to say that unless publicity is reserved for the end of a negotiation, it renders agreement on vital issues virtually impossible.

For great masses of people cannot negotiate. They can no more negotiate than they can make love or write books or invent. They can approve or disapprove the results, but if they participate in the negotiation itself they merely shout themselves hoarse and fall into a hopeless deadlock.

That why it is the part of wisdom at the present time to return to the ordinary process of diplomacy.

Two Cars Slightly Damaged in Crash

Two cars were slightly damaged in a collision about 3:45 this morning on the S. Onondaga at Hill. A car driven by Leo J. Koss, Springfield, Mo., going south on Onondaga, skidded and struck a wrecking car, owned by the August Brandt company, which was parked at the side of the road. None of the occupants was injured.

Horse Proves Little Stiffer Than Usual, Protests to Court

Elkhorn, Wis.—(AP)—The white horse Ralph Tolkan looked upon made him see red.

One day last fall he saw the horse on a farm and offered to trade his buckskin horse for it, but the farmer said no. Came another day recently and he saw the farmer again.

"How's the white horse?" Tolkan asked.

"Not quite so spry and a little stiffer," he quoted the farmer, whereupon a trade was arranged.

Later Tolkan came before a judge and said:

"As he'd said before, it was a little stiffer than usual. I went back of the barn and there was the white horse—some dead."

Fowl Prices at Low Figures on Appleton Market

Top Turkeys Going for 25 Cents Pound—All Meats Reduced

Prices of fresh poultry on the Appleton market are the lowest they have been in many years, and thousands of birds will grace Christmas tables, market men say.

With prices on turkeys and other fowl at exceptionally low levels, market men say they haven't seen such a heavy demand for birds in many years. Other meat prices also are quoted at ridiculously low prices, they say.

Top dressed turkeys are selling at 25 cents a pound in Appleton and the No. 2 rounds are going at prices ranging from 19 to 22 cents per pound. High grade geese are selling from 15 to 16 cents a pound, and the No. 2 grades are selling at 13 and 14 cents a pound.

Ducks and chickens also are selling at lowest figures in the past two decades. Top dressed ducks can be obtained at prices ranging from 14 to 20 cents a pound, and chickens are available at 13 to 20 cents per pound.

A year ago during the holidays, turkeys were selling at 40 to 42 cents a pound; geese, 22 and 23 cents a pound; ducks, 25 cents a pound; and chickens 23 to 25 cents a pound.

Thirty per cent reductions are noticed this season in most meat prices. Several Appleton markets have a limited supply of young sucking pigs, which in the form of spinnafarkel grace the tables in many residences at Christmas time. These little porkers are available at prices ranging from $2 to $2.50 each.

Prices on other pork products are quoted from 40 to 50 per cent lower than a year ago. Pork prices range from 8 to 10 cents a pound. At the present time veal is selling as low as 8 to 15 cents a pound.

"Prince" Again Back in America

Gerguson Tells New York Reporters He Was Stowed Away Aboard Europa

New York—(AP)—"Prince" Michael Romanoff, who is Harry F. Gerguson and somewhat of a pain to immigration authorities, turned up in his former New York haunts last night and the local newspapers said he came across the ocean on the Europa.

The newspapers quoted the "prince" as saying he stowed away on the liner and walked off behind Marilyn Miller, being, of course, little noticed.

His last previous trip America-ward was on the Ile de France, a stowaway, last April. Immigration authorities had considerable difficulty holding him at Ellis Island and when they deported him back to France—despite some intimation that he originated in Florida—it was with a sigh of great relief.

France gave him six months in the gaol, much to the "prince's" distaste, and then invited him to stay as far away from France as possible. He is fresh from that experience.

Reporters who found him in a night club last night related that he was nervous about the immigration authorities because he dreaded the prospect of being sent to a German prison for stowing away on a German boat.

He was thinking about going to Canada, which is perhaps the one big country in which he has done no "Romanoffing."

Advertising Is Business Need, Babson Asserts

Selling Also Prescribed by Expert to Cure Economy Craze

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Fla. — Business is suffering from a new disease, which I call "Econo-mania" — a craze for economy. The effects are just like creeping paralysis, and unless checked, just as fatal. The cure is a strong antidote of hard-hitting advertising and selling. Anybody who preaches "economy" today is just as crazy and dangerous as those who preached extravagance in 1929. To start the wheels of business rolling we must provide people not only with the purchasing medium but with the purchasing desire. Admittedly a great many people cannot buy more than they are now buying; but there are a great many others who can buy, and won't. The reason they won't is because they have acquired the "economy complex." It has become fashionable now to stint and scrape, just as it was fashionable in 1929 to spend and splurge. The present attitude is like that of the rich woman who discharged her chauffeur in order to save his wages to give to the unemployment relief fund.

Advertising has a great opportunity and an urgent duty to change the public fashion from false economy to constructive spending. The argument that you can't sell now because purchasing power is low is a major cause of defeatism. We can never bring back prosperity by such talk. The only way to increase purchasing power is to use the purchasing power we now have. The way to pry loose hoarded dollars and put them into circulation and service is to create a strong desire to buy. That is the advertiser's and salesman's job. It is more than a matter of the well-being and prosperity of 123,000,000 people. Advertising in 1933 must be encouraged, expanded and improved. People must be inspired to buy the most at lowest prices instead of waiting to buy less at higher prices.

About the only things that have been thoroughly advertised for the past two years are "economy" and "defeatism." Now is the psychological time, with business gradually starting on the upswing, to advertise "profitable spending" and "business recovery." If people can't be induced to buy more as a public duty to the unemployed then appeal to them on the basis of their own self-interest. Wholesale commodity prices are stabilizing and are beginning to rise. Current low prices for finished goods will be marked up as replacements have to be made at higher raw material prices. A year from now consumers will recognize that advertisers gave good advice when they urged them to buy before prices rose instead of afterwards. Prices of clothing, food, furniture, automobiles, electricity, household appliances, drugs, and miscellaneous goods and services are now far lower than at the bottom of the 1921 depression and in many instances the lowest since 1915. The dollars spent now are dollars of swollen value, but dollars hoarded now will shrink in value. The way to get the most for your money in this period is to spend it. As prices rise, houses, land, securities and nearly everything else will appreciate, but mere money will depreciate.

Need Circulation

"Purchasing power" is a much misunderstood term. Many think it means the amount of money in the country. They therefore argue that the only way to increase purchasing power is to print more money. That there is plenty of money in the country. The trouble is that much of it is not circulating. It is piled up in the banks, or hidden away in homes, and hence lost to active circulation. To get this money back into industry where it will start production and pay wages is the big job before the advertising and sales forces of the nation. If every person with a job in the United States could be induced to spend only one dollar per week during the coming year, the volume of business would be increased $10,000,000,000. Banks would release billions more to finance the purchase of commodities and equipment; industry would step up its rate of employment and production; food, clothing and housing, purchasing power would advance, and prosperity would return.

Hence I say that the real job before this country now is an advertising and selling job. It is so important to business recovery and to the nation's welfare that the Government would be justified in subsidizing advertising and selling. These are certainly the two things the Government should subsidize if it subsidizes anything. More people should be put onto sales and advertising work and a general movement should be started to induce those who can buy to do so. I cannot too strongly emphasize that purchasing power is dependent not on the amount of money, but on the rate at which it circulates. Increase the rate of circulation and you increase business, employment, earnings and purchasing power.

Use Idle Men

If I were the unemployment Mussolini of this country, I would organize and train an army of men and women now unemployed to present a nation-wide educational campaign to create a legitimate demand for goods. Some may say that most of the unemployed are unable to sell. I deny this statement. Such people are perhaps unfitted to influence business men; but they may be better able to influence their own neighbors than the business men are. Yes, give me a small portion of the money which public officials are today spending upon charity and let me use this money in giving a group of the unemployed supervised promotional work, and the demand for goods would immediately return. Before long business would be back again to normal.

Business as registered by the Babsonchart now stands at 16 per cent below a year ago.

Why Not Put Tax on Ghosts? Senators Consider New Idea

Washington—(AP)—Senate debate got switched over to a discussion of ghosts.

Senator Ashurst (D., Ariz.), advocating a constitutional amendment to prevent the issuance of tax exempt securities, said it would free business of a fear "comparable to the fear a boy has of ghosts."

Ashurst confessed to the senate that when he was a boy he had "a morbid, dreadful fear of ghosts."

Senator Gore (D., Okla.), asked Ashurst if his amendment would authorize a tax on ghosts.

"I am not familiar enough with the life beyond this to see how it could be collected," Ashurst replied.

"It would raise abundant revenue," Gore returned. "We engaged last session in placing phantom taxes on phantom incomes and phantom revenue resulted."

Fruit, Vegetable Prices in Brisk Advance on Mart

10 to 20 Per Cent Increases Noted on Fresh Produce

Prices of fresh fruits and vegetables took their annual holiday rise during the past week, according to Appleton dealers. Prices in some instances have gone up from 10 to 20 per cent. After Christmas it is believed, prices will again turn downward as they did following Thanksgiving day.

The vegetable market is quoted as follows: Brussels sprouts, 25 cents a quart; green beans, 25 cents a pound; fresh peas, 10 and 15 cents a pound; spinach, 15 cents a pound; carrots 10 cents a bunch; radishes, 5 and 10 cents a bunch; cucumbers, 20 cents each; parsley, 10 cents a bunch.

Horseradish root is still holding out at 25 cents a pound; chives, 20 cents a pot; cabbage, 3 cents a pound; head lettuce, 10 and 12 cents a head; celery, 10 to 15 cents a bunch; celery cabbage, 15 cents; mushrooms, 45 cents a pound; broccoli, two for 25 cents; tomatoes, 25 cents a pound for the hothouse variety; onions, three pounds for 10 cents.

Silver skin onions are selling at 5 cents a pound; beets, 8 cents a bunch; alligator pears, 25 cents each; green peppers, 10 cents each; red peppers, 10 cents each; turnips, 5 cents a pound; sweet potatoes, 5 cents a pound; new potatoes, 13 to 18 cents a peck; French endives, 45 cents a pound; squash, 8 cents a pound; celery root, 5 cents a pound; and fresh nutmegs, three for 10 cents.

The fruit market is quoted as follows: Fresh frozen strawberries, 25 cents a pound; red grapes, three pounds for 19 cents; bananas, three pounds for 19 cents; oranges, 19 to 59 cents a dozen; lemons, 48 cents a dozen; pears, 39 cents a dozen; honeydew melons, 25 cents each; grapefruit, 5 and 8 cents each; pomelo, 10 cents; and cranberries, 15 cents a pound.

Develop Fertilizer Of Ammoniated Peat

Washington—(AP)—Development of a new fertilizer material ammoniated peat is reported by the department of agriculture after experiments in its laboratory. The department says the material "seems to combine many of the good features of nitrogen-carrying fertilizer." It adds:

"It has not been developed commercially yet, but chemists of the department say that the manufacturing process is simple and relatively inexpensive, and that the commercial production of ammoniated peat offers opportunity for material saving in freight on fertilizer."

One hundred pounds of 20 per cent ammoniated peat would be roughly equivalent to 200 pounds of cottonseed meal plus 50 pounds of sodium nitrate, the department estimates.

SHOPPING DAY UNTIL CHRISTMAS

Christmas Dinners for Inmates of Institutions

Special Christmas dinners are being planned for 280 inmates and staff members of the county jail, the county asylum, and Riverview sanatorium at Little Chute, according to institution officials.

At the county asylum there will be Christmas trees in each of the wards and distribution of candy, nuts, fruit, cigars and pipes to the men and presents to the women. At the sanatorium a large Christmas tree has been set up on the grounds and the interior of the building is being decorated.

No special celebration of Christmas is planned at the sanatorium or jail except that relatives will visit with inmates and bring them gifts and special food delicacies. About 10 inmates will be served at the county jail; 210 inmates and staff members will be served at the asylum; and about 70 will be served at the sanatorium.

The menus for the three institutions follow:

County Jail

Roast stuffed goose, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy; cranberry sauce, salad, bread and butter, mince pie and coffee and candy and nuts.

County Asylum

Roast chicken and roast pork, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, hot rolls and butter, salad, three kinds of vegetables, apple pie and coffee.

Sanatorium

Roast turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, baked squash, mince pie, coffee, bread and butter.

Yule Trees $25 Each in Russia

Foreigners Have Hard Time Trying to Observe Christmas

Moscow—(AP)—With Christmas trees selling at $25 each and hard to get even at that price, Americans and other foreigners in Soviet Russia who insist on observing Christmas in appropriate fashion, notwithstanding the fact it is ignored by most Russians, find it expensive as well as difficult so far as the actual trimmings are concerned.

Stringent police regulations prohibit the sale even of the smallest concession to foreigners. The government permits a few florist shops to handle a small number exclusively for them.

The necessary adornment, however, is virtually non-existent here now.

The result is a great demand for tinfoil from long-discarded empty cigarette and candy packages from aboard, absorbent cotton, ribbons and any other gimcracks which possibly could lend the traditional Christmas touch.

Several American engineers attached to Moscow trusts, whose wives and children are with them, went into the country and chopped down their own trees rather than pay the high price of the trees of the embassies and legations, better equipped than individual foreigners, will have the usual richly-decorated trees.

Meanwhile, the newspapers published an announcement from the All-Union Godless society scheduling anti-Christmas meetings and lectures in various cities on Dec. 25.

Even the Foreign Workers' club of Moscow, an organization whose membership is chiefly German and American, is attempting for the first time an anti-Christmas meeting on Christmas night.

122 Cases of Disease Reported in County

There were 122 cases of contagious diseases reported from Outagamie county in the week ending, Dec. 17, according to a report received by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, from the state board of health. Of this number 113 cases were reported from Appleton as follows: measles, 68; chicken pox, 23; diphtheria, two. Dale reported a case of erysipelas, two cases of influenza, and a case of measles; Kaukauna reported one case of measles; Oneida one case of influenza; and Shiocton two cases of chicken pox.

Don't Neglect School System, Mursell Urges

Education Necessary for Prosperity, Professor Tells Optimists

"If we could immediately raise our standard of living 50 per cent, America would enter an era of prosperity such as has never been imagined," declared James L. Mursell, professor of education at Lawrence college, in an address Thursday noon at the weekly meeting of the Appleton Optimists club. Prof. Mursell, who was discussing Education in Relation to Business, pointed out that the only way to insure a rise in the standard of living was through education.

During these days of stress many people are attacking the schools, claiming their costs are excessive and demanding that some of its activities be abolished, the professor said. He declared this policy of elimination was unwise, because only through education can the social and economic welfare of a community, state or nation, continue upward.

Professor Mursell said that good schools insure prosperity. He pointed to Denmark to prove his contention. For a century, he said, the rural school system of that country has been highly developed, rating far above the United States. In that country it is found that the farmers are prosperous, a direct indication that its remarkable rural school system is responsible.

Benefit To All

The Lawrence professor pointed out that many people had the mistaken idea that education was an ornament or an adornment, whereas it is in reality a benefit not only to the person acquiring an education, but to the community as a whole. In order to properly educate children schools need to be good ones. Poor schools are not worth having.

"We usually find that criticism of schools arises where the school costs are lowest," Prof. Mursell stated. "Good schools have such definite and easily definable values that they sell themselves."

As proof that the standard of living is raised through education, Prof. Mursell pointed out that in the five states in America which have the poorest school systems, the per capita wealth is $150, while in the five states with the best schools, the per capita wealth is $650. In these same five states with the poor systems the per capita savings are four or five times less than in the five states with the good systems.

Prof. Mursell said that a good education should accomplish six purposes. These are:

"An educated man should be better able to care for himself physically. He should be able to enjoy life more thoroughly because of this ability.

"An educated man should be more efficient and competent in his family life, while in girls this ability manifests itself in their being better home makers.

"An educated man should make a better neighbor and a better member of the community.

Better Citizen

"An educated man should make a better citizen. He should be more willing to vote and better able to understand public questions.

"An educated man should have more resources and efficiency at play.

"A good education should be the basis of business improvement and economic progress. An educated man should not necessarily be trained in a vocational line, but his education should consist of a background which will enable him to make better progress than the man without this education."

Dr. Mursell pointed out that fact that he failed to include in the six

Plan Meetings for Farmers of State

Head of Holiday Association to Speak at Marshfield Conference

Representatives of most farmers' organizations in the state, including directors of various units of Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, will go to Marshfield on Dec. 3 and Menomonie Falls Dec. 29 to attend mass gatherings.

Milo Reno, president of the Wisconsin Farm Holiday association, will be the principal speaker at the Marshfield meeting. It is expected that a definite date for the Wisconsin milk strike may be set at the meeting.

Max Cichon, Elkhorn farmer, who was evicted from his farm by authorities of Walworth-co armed with machine guns and rifles on the morning of Dec. 6, also will speak. Walter M. Singler, Shiocton, representing the milk pool, also will be on the program. Several representatives of the Wisconsin department of markets and agriculture have been invited to attend.

purposes the ability to speak many languages or to be able to solve intricate mathematical problems. These are only incidental, he said.

"If you as business men are interested in developing a new market, then you must be interested in education," Dr. Mursell declared. "It is education that raises the standard of living and the raising of this standard brings about renewed prosperity and good times."

Burglars Get $200 in Loot At 2 Depots

Authorities Believe Same Gang Committed Both Burglaries

Two burglaries of Soo Line railroad depots at Nichols, Outagamie-co, and Navarino, Shawano-co, occurred last night. Authorities believe the same gang of men is responsible. The burglary at Nichols netted goods valued at approximately $150, and the burglary at Navarino netted goods with value estimated at $50. Sheriff John Lappen went to Nichols this morning to investigate.

Sheriff Lappen was notified of the burglary at Navarino this morning by C. R. Power, depot agent. Mr. Power discovered the thefts when he went to work at 7 o'clock this morning, although he was not due on the job until 8 a. m. The sheriff said Mr. Power left the station about 6 o'clock last night and that the burglary occurred between that time and 7 o'clock this morning.

Burglars gained entrance to the depot by forcing the latch on the freight room door. They stole several express shipments of Christmas goods, intended for Nichols dealers; a typewriter; and two boxes of freight. Among the stolen articles were jewelry, hardware, clothing and other Christmas goods. At Navarino the burglary was discovered this morning by J. L. Freeborn, the station agent. The thieves took several C. O. D. express packages. It was believed the same burglars were responsible for the thefts because they took only the express or freight packages. At Nichols no attempt to open a money drawer was made. The drawer, however, was empty.

At a meeting of the incorporators at Drexel Thursday afternoon, articles of incorporation of the Drexel Livestock Shipping association were signed by B. J. Brugger, Malen Krull, Fred Drexel, Charles Mueller, and W. A. Blake. The articles were presented to the incorporators by G. A. Sell, county agent, and were thoroughly discussed before being signed. The association also decided to become a member of the State Federation of Livestock Shipping associations. Since the decision was made to reorganize on a three-year membership basis, the association has signed up 81 members. Most of the signatures were obtained at three meetings called by the local promoters. The first of these meetings was held the last week in September and was closely followed by the two other meetings.

The day set for the first annual meeting is the first Tuesday in January. At that time the permanent directors and officials are to be elected. The directors are to be elected by the membership and the officers by the directors. After the annual meeting, quarterly meetings of the members and monthly meetings of the directors are to be held. The by-laws drawn are to be presented to the annual meeting for consideration and possible adoption. An effort will be made at the annual meeting to continue the social organization of the old Equity shipping association, to make it an auxiliary of the new shipping association, according to the incorporators.

Charge Postman With Taking Cash

Stephen L. Spellman, Menasha, Bound Over to Federal Court

Stephen L. Spellman, 233 W. Fourth-st., Menasha, a postman carrying a city route out of the Menasha post office, was arraigned before United States Commissioner John F. Watermolen at Green Bay yesterday afternoon, charged with taking $1 from a letter on Dec. 7.

He waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the January term of federal court. Bond of $1,000 was furnished and he was released.

15 Probate Cases

Listed For Hearing

Fifteen probate cases are listed for hearing at a special term of Outagamie-co court at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning before Judge Fred V. Heinemann at the courthouse. Cases on the calendar include: hearing on petition for administration in the estates of Wilhelm Dietrich, Herman P. Winters and Henry Court; hearing on proof of will in the estates of Henry Baum, and James Hittner; hearing on claims in the estates of Frances O'Keefe, Rachel Robinson and Sophia Ahlers; hearing on final account in the estates of Patrick Devlin, the Rev. Peter J. Lochman, Patrick H. Woods, Reinhold Klug, Grace R. Bagg and John E. Ward; hearing on petition for removal of executor in the estate of Fred C. Drexel.

Beg Pardon

In an obituary published in the Appleton Post-Crescent Thursday the name of Mrs. Lyman Wanner was erroneously reported as being a survivor. The name should have been Mrs. Lydia Wanner.

Two Men Sent to Jail For Theft of Jacket

Charles Jansen and Robert Guenther, alias Charles J. Zajac, two itinerants, were sentenced to the county jail for 60 days by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court yesterday afternoon when they were found guilty of larceny. The two men were charged with stealing a leather jacket from the Montgomery Ward store on W. College-ave several weeks ago. They were arrested at the Chicago and Northwestern railroad depot shortly after the theft was reported, when Jansen was wearing the jacket. It was brought out in court that Jansen had been previously arrested in Minneapolis on a charge of robbery, but he was released after investigation.

Tax Collection Starts Tuesday

City Treasurer's Office Ready for Payers at 8 O'clock in Morning

The collection of city taxes will start when the doors of city hall open at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. The writing of receipts and comparison of the tax and assessment rolls is completed, the racks are up, and everything is in readiness for the annual rush in the city treasurer's office.

Joseph E. Cox, city treasurer, requests all taxpayers to bring their last year's tax receipts with them when they come to pay taxes, so the property descriptions can be verified with the least possible inconvenience. Persons phoning for tax information also are asked to be familiar with their property descriptions.

More Wet Weather on Menu for Saturday

More wet weather is on the menu for Appleton and vicinity for tonight and Saturday, the weatherman says.

His predictions follow: "Unsettled, rain probable in southeast portion tonight and Saturday and in west and north Saturday; some wet weather in extreme northwest tonight."

Skating rinks were under water today, and what snow was left on the ground was disappearing fast as noon as the mercury rose. Winds are still blowing from the south and southwest, a good indication that warmer weather is on the way.

At 6 o'clock Friday morning the mercury registered 33 degrees above zero and at noon it registered 39 degrees above.

Scouts, Cubs Take Part in Yule Party

Boy scouts of Troop 4, Oney Johnston post, American Legion were entertained at a Christmas party Thursday evening in Appleton high school gymnasium. A program of games and stunts the youngsters enjoyed refreshments. A similar party was given for youngsters in the legion Cub pack at Alexander gymnasium on Lawrence college campus last evening. Ted Frank was in charge of the scout program, and John Oliver directed activities of the Cub pack.

Mike Mack Recovering At Minnoscota Hospital

Mike Mack, Shiocton, chairman of the Outagamie-co board and state senator-elect from the district comprising Outagamie and Shawano-counties is rapidly recovering at Mayo Brothers hospital at Rochester, Minn., where he submitted to an operation last week. Mr. Mack left today for Rochester to spend Christmas with his husband. It was expected Mr. Mack would be able to return to his home next week.

22 Appleton Children Send Letters to Santa

Twenty-two Appleton children this year addressed personal letters to Santa Claus at the North Pole, according to postal officials. These letters, because they are undeliverable, are being sent to the dead letter office.

Many of the missives bear Christmas seals for stamps, while others have regular postage stamps. Several of the letters required considerable attention as postal employees attempted to decipher the writing.

Another Bridge Divorce Is Granted in Chicago

Chicago — (P) — Another bridge hand divorce has been recorded here. This time it was Mrs. Virginia Jewell Trankle who won a decree from her husband, Albert J. Trankle.

She testified he became so angered at her during a game he not only pushed her out of her chair but dumped the table on top of her.

It Is Said—

That even members of the medical profession have turned to accepting goods in trade for their services from farmers who cannot pay cash. One Appleton doctor, who had a large bill due him for treating a farmer's wife, is now receiving regular weekly deliveries of freshly dressed chickens.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"My parents are such old darlings! I just couldn't tell them I don't want any dolls this year."

Holiday Lighting Contest Abandoned for This Year

With only twelve entries received until noon today, the Appleton Post-Crescent feels compelled to abandon its holiday lighting contest for this year. It feels that a dozen decorated homes are not representative of the places decorated for the holidays and the very apparent lack of interest in the contest feature makes it advisable to abandon the competitive feature.

The Post-Crescent is grateful to the dozen persons who by sending in their entries attempted to make the contest a success and hopes they will not be discouraged in their lighting efforts by the failure to proceed with prize awards. Perhaps next year there will be a better opportunity for encouraging Christmas lighting and it is hoped that all those who enter this year will be on hand again next winter.

The fact that there is no contest this year should not discourage holiday lighting. It is hoped that every household in the city will put up some form of Christmas decoration. Nothing will do more to awaken holiday enthusiasm than brilliant lights. Appleton needs that kind of enthusiasm and every public spirited citizen will do his part toward creating it.

Additional Loans for Minnesota, Indiana

Washington — (P) — The Reconstruction corporation today authorized relief loans totalling $1,818,243 to the states of Minnesota and Indiana for relief needs during January and February.

Indiana was allotted $1,111,778 for use in six counties and two municipalities. None were identified in the corporation's announcement.

Minnesota received $696,467 to be divided among 23 political subdivisions. In the case of three of these, the corporation said, the allotment was for January only, while in the remainder the sum covered requirements for both January and February.

Winnebago-co Judge At Conference Here

Judge A. R. MacDonald of the Winnebago-co court, was in Appleton this morning for a conference with Judge Fred V. Heinemann, County Clerk John E. Hantschel, and Anton Jensen, chairman of the county board committee on poor relief. The judge was receiving information on the plan under which county indigent medical cases are handled.

Milwaukee Woman Is Given Divorce Here

Mrs. Marcella R. O'Brien, 26 Milwaukee, was granted a divorce by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court yesterday from her husband, Vernon P. O'Brien, 28, Milwaukee. She charged her husband was cruel and inhuman, that he struck her and abused her. The suit was not contested. The couple was wed at Waukesha on Oct. 15, 1927, and separated on Oct. 26, 1932. They have no children and Mrs. O'Brien did not ask for alimony.

Senate for Delay On Beer Measure

lief that if the measure went first to committee it would be impossible to obtain action at the short session.

He said he did not wish to make any "derogatory" remarks about the judiciary committee, but that bills to modify the Volstead act and to repeal the 18th amendment have been pending before it for months and none has been reported.

He said he asked Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee, for early consideration of his repeal amendment Dec. 17, 1931, but hearings were not held by a subcommittee until four months later. He cited this as an example of the delay he said would result if the beer bill were now taken up by the committee.

"It is perfectly apparent what the senator from Connecticut is trying to do," Robinson began. "He is trying to gain some sort of partisan advantage by attempting to bring up a beer bill under conditions when every senator knows it can't be promptly disposed of."

Desire Report
There is not any disposition on this side of the chamber to unfairly delay this kind of legislation. We are interested in obtaining a report from the judiciary committee, because an opinion by the committee on manufacturers doesn't carry the legal weight of a finding by the committee on the judiciary, which is the legal committee of the senate.

He explained that he referred to the constitutional phases of beer bills, on which extensive hearings were held last session by the manufacturers committee.

Robinson announced if there were indications of a filibuster against the bill in committee, he would move later in the session to discharge it.

He agreed to this course of action in response to a suggestion from Senator Walsh (D., Mass.).

Robinson said the Democrats not only had an obligation to their party platform, but an obligation to uphold the constitution.

For that reason, he said the legislation should go to the committee for study.

"I feel warranted in declaring that prompt consideration will be given to the subject by that committee and action will be given in a reasonable time," he said.

Dryers Fan Wets
Evanston, Ill. — (P) — National headquarters of the Women's Christian Temperance union today issued a statement in which the political downfall of members of congress who voted for the Collier beer bill was predicted.

Special Services For Christmas in Appleton Churches

Programs, Masses, Cantatas Scheduled During Weekend

Christmas trees will sparkle, Christmas bells will ring, and the story of the Christ-child will be told in story and song this week end in all churches. Most Sunday School programs, with the usual array of recitations, songs, gifts, and jolly old Santa, will be held Friday and Saturday evenings, and Sunday morning the churches will ring with joyous Christmas anthems. In the Lutheran churches special services will be held on the second Christmas morning, Monday.

To Present Pageant
The Christmas Pageant of the Holy Grail will be given by the young people of the Methodist Sunday School and church in the little theatre of the church at 7 o'clock Friday evening. Mrs. John Engel, Jr. is directing the production.

The pageant is divided into four scenes—when King Arthur sees the vision, the knights' departure, Galahad's temptation, and the knights' return and the appearance of the Grail.

The action is in pantomime, with Arthur Smith as the reader. The music is under the direction of Carl J. Waterman and Marshall Hulbert, and a quartet made up of Mr. and Mrs. Waterman, Miss Irene Bidwell and Marshall Hulbert will sing during the pageant.

The cast includes G. A. Sell, King Arthur; Samuel Leete, Lancelot; Stevens, Gareth; Judson Rosebush, Sir Tristram; Clark Nixon, Percival; Stanley Zahrt, Mordred; Billy Lohr, Mordred; Barbara Wriston and Ruth Merkle, the angels; Marion Dettman, Mary; Phillip Ottman, Joseph; Charles and Chester Gooding, two shepherds; Earl Becker, Karl Cast, and Robert de Long, the wise men; Walter Schmidt, a page; Dorothy Briggs, Betty Lohr and Marjorie Krueger, the three damsels.

Group Singing
In addition to the pageant there will be group singing. Old Christmas songs, led by Marshall Hulbert; a prayer by Dr. Holmes; special music by the beginners and primary departments; the presentation of white gifts; and the arrival of old St. Nicholas and his pack of Christmas cheer.

Dr. H. F. Lewis is general chairman of the program. Mrs. Edith Wright is making arrangements for the Christmas treat, Edwin Godfrey for the tree, and Mr. Waterman and Mr. Hulbert for the candles and the manger scene.

There will be no Sunday school or young people's meetings Sunday, and at the 11 o'clock service Holy Communion will be administered and the choir will sing special Christmas anthems.

A living Christmas picture of "The Star of Bethlehem" by Margaret Tarrant will be the feature of the annual Church School program at the First Congregational church at 4:30 Saturday afternoon.

With the manager scene in the background, the worship of the Christ-child by the orientals and the moderns, will be portrayed. About 150 young people will take part. Principal roles will be taken by Janette Hughes, who will portray the Madonna; Ruth Orblison, Verla Asman, Beverly May Olson and Mary Brandenburg, angels; Paul Huttup, John Bixby and Donald Hoffman, shepherds; Margaret Jennings, Mary Voecks, Edmund Neilson, and the managers scene.

Choruses from the Church school will sing, LaVahn Maesch will be at the organ, Miss Eleanor Voecks will play the violin, and Mrs. W. F. Bradburn and Lester Schmidt will sing.

General arrangements are in charge of W. F. Bradburn, Mrs. Ben Wadsworth, Mrs. C. K. Boyer, Miss Mary Reineck are assisting with the music. Costumes are in charge of Miss Louise Marston, Miss Angeline Kilson, and Miss Evelyn Kreiss; properties, Wilbur Hanson, Miss Josephine Buchanan; lighting, John Reeve and William Zuehlke; stage, Harold Heiser; makeup, Miss Maxine Fraser and Mrs. Agnes Dean; and scenery, Dean and Boyden Art service.

Midnight Organ Service
Mr. Maesch will present a midnight organ service at 11:30 Saturday evening.

The cantata, "Hail Messiah" by Ira B. Wilson will be presented by the church choir of First English Lutheran church at the regular morning service at 10:30 Sunday morning. The choir of 26 voices is directed by the direction of Miss Florence Roate, and Mrs. Floyd Foor is the organist.

Solos will be sung by Miss Irene Gramse, Elmer Rebbin, Miss Florence Roate, Mrs. Battle Koerner, Geranna Gehl. A trio made up of the Misses Florence Roate, Verona Klippstein and Esther Steiner will sing "Glory in the Highest," a quartet consisting of the Misses Florence Roate and Esther Steiner, Charles Richter, and Charles Huesman, Jr., will sing "He Shall Have Dominion." Another quartet, including Clarence Richter, Grover Smith, Elmer Rebbin and Charles Huesman, Jr., will present "How Can I Crown Thee," with Miss Gehl singing the solo part.

Karl Saeger, accompanied by Mrs. Clarence Richter at the piano, will play two violin solos, "Serenade" by Tusalli, and "Forest Voices" by James Francis Cook.

There will be a program in Fellowship hall at 7 o'clock Christmas eve.

A program of recitations and songs will be given by the primary and upper departments of the Sunday School.

Fights Repeal

Throwing legal wrenches into the machinery for repeal of the 18th amendment is the job of Edward E. Dunford, above, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, Dunford, lieutenant of the late Wayne E. Wheeler, shuns conspicuous leadership of the dry fight, but if the repeal amendment gets tied up in a constitutional tangle he's likely to be chiefly responsible.

Out of Santa's Sack

(By the Associated Press)
Seattle — "Happy birthday, Nellie."

"Merry Christmas," say two voices.

That's been going on for 20 years at the breakfast table of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Young on Dec. 25. Both husband and wife were born on Christmas day.

Toothsome Gift
Muskegee, Okla. — Some Muskegees will receive the gold in their teeth as a Christmas gift. Dr. G. W. Moore, dentist, announced he would cancel $1,000 in debts as a present to his patients.

Safe but Stale
Peabody, Kas. — If Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Allison of Wichita give any more Christmas candy to bankers, they will deliver it in person. Eleven years ago they mailed a box of home-made sweets to a Peabody, Kas., bank.

Recently while at the bank on business, Mr. Allison was told of a box that had lain in the vault since December, 1921. The cashier brought it out—and it contained the Allison's candy.

The bank president said he thought Allison had sent the family sugar, or other valuables, for safe keeping.

Whiskers? Wham!
Detroit — An informal discussion as to whether Santa Claus wears a flowing beard or "just a little dab of whiskers on his chin" waxed hot. Michael Murray, who argued for long whiskers, said he got a broken leg in the fracas. Police are searching for Joseph Hinkley, who was first for the goats.

Postal Workers Kept Busy With Incoming Mails

Outgoing Parcels, Cards in Heavy Shump as 'Rush' Nears End

The heavy influx of incoming Christmas mail kept employees of Appleton postoffice busy until well past midnight Thursday. Although the force was augmented by several additional workers, many hours of labor were required to keep the mails in motion.

Debt Dispute Is Explained By Roosevelt

Governor-Elect Says He Made "Definite Suggestion" for Cooperation

Washington—(P)—The exchange of views between President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt on foreign problems, found them standing far apart today, not only on methods but on the question of cooperation as well.

Within a few hours after Mr. Hoover had said that his successor-elect "considers that it is undesirable for him to assent to my suggestions for cooperative action," the governor in Albany expressed regret and surprise at the statement and asserted he had made a definite suggestion which he termed a "definite offer of cooperation."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement last night said:

for this country but for the solution of world problems that any statement of intimation should be given that I consider it undesirable to assent to cooperative action on foreign problems.

"I have made to the president the definite suggestion that he select his representatives to make preliminary studies. I have asked to be kept advised as to the progress of these preliminaries. I have offered to consult with the president freely between now and March 4.

"I hope that this practical program and definite offer of cooperation will be accepted."

White House Statement

In making public the exchange of telegrams between the chief executive and president-elect and disclosing that Mr. Hoover had abandoned his plan of appointing a commission to study war debts, disarmament and economic problems, White House attaches also released this statement by the president:

"Governor Roosevelt considers that it is undesirable for him to assent to my suggestions for cooperative action on the foreign problems outlined in my recent message to congress. I will respect his wishes.

"Situations will no doubt develop and will be dealt with by the administration as they arise, but of course no commitments will be made for the next administration."

In the communications Governor Roosevelt indicated his desire to avoid fixed policies in any preliminary examinations made in the international field, leaving him a free hand to proceed in his own manner after his inauguration. He said he could not accept "an apparent joint responsibility" for creation of a commission.

With the president's abandonment of his plan for such a bipartisan commission, indications were that the problems of war debts, disarmament and world economies would be handed on to the incoming administration in much their present form.

In his debts message, Mr. Hoover said he would welcome creation by congress of a commission, but such action is extremely remote. The chief executive himself now feels that a commission appointed by him would not have value unless it could continue active after March 4 and is not likely to accede to the governor's suggestion that he select his representatives to make preliminary studies.

The effect of these developments on intentions of foreign debtors to renew petitions for review of their obligations remains to be seen. Great Britain, among others, has said that further payments under existing agreements are impossible. At the same time administration circles had hoped that creation of a commission would provide a basis for France to pay its defaulted Dec. 15 installment. Whether these nations would seek re-consideration immediately through diplomatic channels as suggested by Governor

Roosevelt was a matter of speculation.

Albany, N. Y.—(P)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, after pondering until late last night President Hoover's statement that the president-elect had found it "undesirable" to approve the White House plan for cooperative action on foreign problems, has affirmed his willingness to cooperate with the president and expressed regret at the chief executive's utterance.

In a formal statement, issued an hour before midnight, Mr. Roosevelt said he felt it was "a pity" from an international standpoint "that any statement or intimation should be given that I consider it undesirable to assent to cooperative action on foreign problems."

The president-elect, having rejected the Hoover proposal for joint action with the president toward setting up a commission to deal jointly with world debts, disarmament and economic problems, declared he had offered a practical program for approaching the problems and had made a "definite offer of cooperation."

"I am rather surprised at the White House statement issued this afternoon," his statement said. "It is a pity not only for this country but for the solution of world problems that any statement or intimation should be given that I consider it undesirable to assent to cooperative action on foreign problems."

For Preliminary Studies

"I have made to the president the definite suggestion that he select his representatives to make preliminary studies. I have asked to be kept advised as to the progress of these preliminaries. I have offered to consult with the president freely between now and March 4.

"I hope that this practical program and definite offer of cooperation will be accepted."

Earlier in the day, Mr. Roosevelt had read without comment the statement issued by President Hoover at Washington in making public the messages exchanged between them concerning foreign problems. In this the president said "Governor Roosevelt considers that it is undesirable for him to assent to my suggestions for cooperative action on the foreign problems outlined in my recent message to congress. I will respect his wishes."

Mr. Roosevelt thought over the president's utterance at the executive mansion last night where he was in company with Justice Samuel L. Rosenman, who was formerly governor's counsel. There was no hint that he was preparing a statement until Justice Rosenman telephoned newspaper men about 11 o'clock and dictated what the governor had written.

See Misinterpretation

His close friends, however, had previously expressed regret concerning the White House remarks, saying they felt the president's words did not express their views of the meaning of what Mr. Roosevelt had laid in his correspondence with Mr. Hoover. They pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt's replies contained what they interpreted as a definite

Hoover Prepares To Leave Tonight On Fishing Jaunt

All Set for Holiday Cruise Off Georgia and Florida Coast

Washington—(P)—President Hoover's fishing tackle has been oiled and packed and he is ready for a swift trip southward tonight to begin a slow-drifting Christmas holiday fishing cruise off the Georgia and Florida coast and into nearby rivers.

White House aides have withheld formal announcement on the chance nite suggestion that the president should proceed through his own representatives to inquire into the foreign situation.

Mr. Roosevelt, they said, had expressed a desire to help by his willingness to confer with Mr. Hoover during the remaining weeks of his administration.

While the president-elect turned down the Hoover suggestion for joint efforts in setting up a commission to deal with world problems, his associates said they construed this only as a difference of opinion as to the proper approach to such questions and not as unwillingness to cooperate with the president.

some event of great importance might arise to prevent it, but there appeared little possibility today that the projected cruise would be canceled.

Transportation by train has been arranged as far as Savannah, Ga., with arrival there scheduled for 8:30 a. m. Saturday morning after a 12-hour run. It is planned to place President and Mrs. Hoover and members of their party aboard a virtual armada of sea-going craft now lying there, and set sail almost immediately for fishing grounds to the southward. The itinerary will take them wherever the fish are biting best.

The "fleet's" flagship will be the 116-foot department of commerce boat "Sagitta," a sort of unofficial "Mayflower" upon which both the chief executive and Mrs. Hoover have cruised in the past. Mr. Hoover used it on a fishing trip down the Chesapeake bay last summer.

Another commerce department boat of almost equal size, the "Killkenny," will carry other members of the president's immediate party. Two 75-foot coast guard boats of shallow draft will transport the secret service guard while a 100-footer will carry additional secret service men and representatives of the press and photographic services. Still another craft, slightly larger than any other of the "fleet," may be added to the party.

Although the eventual goal will be the sail-fishing and barracuda grounds off southern Florida, the president has let it be known, that is in no great rush to reach them.

Word has come to him that the sea trout are running well not far from Savannah, and his tentative plan is to cast a line within three hours after leaving the Georgia seaport.

With luck on his early tries, a Christmas eve fishing session may be in store for the presidential party. All invitations for Christmas eve at some spot ashore have been declined so that Mr. Hoover may feel free to fish as long as he likes and quit when he chooses. A Christmas party on shore was not definitely eliminated, however.

On Christmas day it is planned to turn southward a brief distance towards St. Catherine's island, where Secretary Chapin of the commerce department has a home. Some nearby river may be explored on an intermediate fishing expedition.

A itinerary beyond this point is uncertain, but it appeared probable that the party would spend most of the time abroad the boats, with but few land trips. Originally it was planned to have two or more of the White House automobiles on hand for such excursions, but these arrangements have been cancelled.

Close Christmas Eve

The Elite theatre will be closed Christmas eve after 6 o'clock, Manager Neil Duffy stated today. The playhouse will be reopened for the 12:30 Sunday afternoon showing of a special Christmas day program.

WHAT TO DO FOR TEMPERANCE?

We shot into prohibition like a rocket. We gave little thought to consequences. We should not return in the same unplanned manner. We ought to go back with a chastened spirit, aroused to a high degree of caution by our experience, not by any means embracing the idea that all our previous methods were desirable, because they certainly were not.

While the existence of profit in handling intoxicants will tend to stimulate sales, the Wickersham Commission, after painstaking review and reflection, placed heavy emphasis upon the American custom of treating as a substantial producer of excessive drinking.

In the past we had in Wisconsin—and we presume it still exists—a law which forbade two things, the sale of intoxicants to minors and to persons under the influence of liquor. If that law could be enforced, if it would be enforced, we would at one stroke clear away much of the evil reposing in the liquor traffic. Why did we not enforce it? Why did it fail utterly?

A step further takes us to the answer. The Wisconsin law vested jurisdiction over licenses, including their granting, suspension and annulment, in the worst possible place for such jurisdiction, the governing bodies, in the cities the city councils. And although the law directed that a license must be annulled under the conditions mentioned, the councils in about 99 cases out of a hundred would not annul it.

Schemes to minimize the evils of the traffic but with the knowledge that a plan is worthless when it drives great masses of the people into open-outlawry, may be classed as the English, the Swedish and the Canadian.

The fact that each has been relatively successful does not mean that either would succeed here or that they are interchangeable. Each system has been devised to fit a certain people with certain traditions and temperament.

The American people will instinctively draw away from a system in which the government owns, sells and dispenses intoxicants. The next step is a system of sale by a corporation under control of the government and regulated by a government commission, almost a public utility concern. This is the Swedish system.

We think the American people will lean more towards the English plan. It is built upon the principle of rigorous regulation by boards of licensing justices, above politics and therefore cold in their impartiality and strict in the rules and regulations they have laid down. A pamphlet called "The ABC Plan for True Temperance, Non-Competitive Model Licenses" upon the theory "that the evil is not in the bottle but in the individual" has been printed and sent broadcast. In fact there are a number of evils, neither altogether in the bottle nor in the individual, neither altogether in profits nor in customs. But the ABC plan favors the appointment by the governor in each state of a board of regulation for each county consisting of seven members, men and women, constituted as follows: "a member of the cloth, a lawyer, a physician or chemist, a merchant, a social service worker, and a member of any well recognized Real Estate Board." The plan falls in this respect because it omits both labor and the farmer. Character and not profession should control.

It may be fortunate for us that total repeal does not come at once and that we therefore may be permitted to experiment with the novelty of lawful beer. The experience may make us wise to many things.

It is a mistake not to expect difficulties and heavy problems ahead. At the same time it is not unlikely that we will see immediate and marked improvements.

Certainly brewers will never be dumb enough to renew their old alliance with distilleries. It was hard liquor and misconduct that pulled the country into the whirlpool of prohibition. Even with the war and all we doubt whether prohibition would have been accepted had brewers theretofore been in the habit of throwing their influence heartily upon the side of law enforcement and moderation.

The next legislature in Wisconsin must prepare the way. The people will support it in making short shrift of law violators in the future.

A WILD MAN IN CONGRESS

Since Louis T. McFadden, congressman from Pennsylvania, indicated his desire to impeach the President considerable has been unearthed and printed about him.

As might be expected he appears to hold a position of preeminence among his fellow representatives as a man with a particularly biting tongue, quickly inflamed at opposition, equally quick in ascribing all opposition to bad motives and sinister purposes.

He first came into general notice a decade ago when, as a banker in his small Pennsylvania town, he hurled anathemas and whatever else of vituperation he could think of, at the federal controller of the currency, because federal examiners had criticized his bank. Carter Glass, then secretary of the treasury, found his letters so "offensive" and so "deliberately mendacious" that he returned them unanswered.

With his election to congress he found greater opportunity in which to display his ornery character and he has erupted with regularity in attempted exposures of alleged plots that would have clicked in Hollywood studios.

The Bank of International Settlements was a sinister outfit, he informed the House, and he could find nothing but atrocious political bargaining in the appointment of Eugene Meyer as head of the Federal Reserve in 1930. His remarks on this latter subject were ordered stricken from the Congressional Record.

A year ago McFadden accused President Hoover of "selling out" his country to German banking interests in New York, in fulfillment of a corrupt bargain whereby they had supported him in 1928. For this he was stripped of his patronage privileges and nearly read out of his party. Republicans and Democrats alike joined in his condemnation.

He appears as one of those unfortunate men with considerable ability and energy who soar to pinnacles of delight in vilifying others. But it takes all kinds of men to make a congress.

FARM MORTGAGE FORECLOSURES

Mr. Singler's call to the farmers to take "mass action" against lawyers and bankers attempting to foreclose mortgages on farms is precipitating a situation that can lead only to endless difficulty and litigation. He suggested to a meeting of farmers here Wednesday night that farmers undertake to prevent competitive bidding at foreclosure sales and that those who insist upon bidding be forcibly removed from the sale. Nominal bids would be made by farmers and the property would be returned to the former owner after it was "knocked down" to them.

There is nothing particularly original about the suggestion, inasmuch as this procedure has been followed in a number of foreclosure sales in Iowa and in western Wisconsin. Thus far there have been no serious disorders, due largely to the unwillingness of sheriffs and police officers to concern themselves with the complaints that invariably accompanied the sales.

A more peaceful way of solving the farm mortgage difficulty must be found, and that without delay. The country cannot afford to ignore extra-legal procedures that defeat the purpose of the mortgage laws, neither can it afford to permit a situation to continue which encourages adoption of these extra legal methods. Despite the tremendous pressure on lawmakers to find ways and means of reducing expenses and increasing revenues, they soon must take some time for consideration of mortgage debt adjustment. Whether this will take the form of an enforced moratorium upon farm mortgage payments, compulsory downward adjustment of farm debt or federal loans at lower rates of interest so farmers can retire their present mortgages remains to be worked out, but it is quite apparent that unless there is a sudden improvement in farm produce price levels, the situation relative to farm foreclosures will become increasingly difficult. The agitation in this country is only one of the many indications of what the country can expect.

OBSTINATE MR. FORD
Remarkable man, that Henry Ford. Often criticized for his peculiar views and viewpoints. Ever since he became prominent there have been many who could tell where he was wrong most of the time.

Lots of people have proved conclusively that he was making business mistakes. These knowing ones invented many jokes about Mr. Ford and his car. They could tell all sorts of ways that he could improve his product. Mr. Ford seemed to prosper.

Old fashioned in his thinking, this Henry Ford. Even when he got a lot of money he didn't act much like a millionaire, at least, after the pattern set by a good many millionaires. He insisted on keeping to the simple, plain, decent way of living that he learned before he became a rich man. Always sort of set in his ways; couldn't catch step with this brilliant, fast modernity.

Even when he came to need an operation to patch up a defect in his body, he refused to act like other men of his age and class. The doctors watched him and marveled. His temperature stayed down, his pulse kept a steady, regular beat and his clean tissues healed as would those of a boy. They said it was the result of his manner of living. He just wouldn't conform to the manners and customs and practices of his time. Obsolete Mr. Ford—Detroit News.

"Wotsa matter," we said gently (you have to treat Wild Bill gently when he gets that way), "are you waiting for Santa Claus?" "NO," said Wild Bill positively and with gestures, "I'm waiting for a hunk of this ice house to fall off so I can have a highball!"

COURAGE

Afraid to start anew?
That can't be true!
In hospital today I heard
A sick man tell:
"I'll brave the world once more,
Tramping from door to door,
I'll peddle pins and needles,
Threads and wax,
When I get well."

Afraid to start again?
This from a bed of pain.
A crippled fellow said to those Who stood about:
"Let me but live and I
Life's troubles will defy;
I'll find some niche or corner
To toil in,
When I get out."

If the brave blind
Courage can find
If the poor maimed and bent
Pray to live on,
Why should we, having health,
Mourn so the loss of wealth
And so dejectedly
Cry aloud,
"All hope is gone!"

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SO THIS IS THE SCHAEFER METHOD?

An insurance company which has gone into the practice of medicine and general public health on an extensive scale distributes a booklet on first aid. There are some quaint notions, maintained by the tyros who got up the booklet.

Thus any wound by a "rusty" nail is dangerous. To be sure the booklet says it is dangerous "on account of the possibility of tetanus. (Look away!) but the drag in the rust? That has nothing whatever to do with the possibility of tetanus. Any wound by any nail, be it ever so bright and new, is as dangerous as is a wound by the rustiest nail.

The simple customer is advised to rub a frostbite vigorously with cold water, snow or ice. That's funny. Kind of an allopathic dose of homeopathy. On the same principle if one sustained a burn from a hot flatiron these comic opera doctors would treat it with a vigorous steaming with the flatiron. Any one who has ever had a frostbite, much less observed the course of the condition, knows that the correct treatment is gentle (not vigorous) massage or kneading with the warm fingers or hand. Somehow when these big corporations go into the doctoring business they feel they must employ only orthodox gentlemen to hand out the "authoritative" advice, and naturally the orthodox medical men cherish all these curious old notions.

Every day I thank heaven we have in the medical profession the dose and the orthodox. We must thank the docs for such progress as we have made in medicine. The orthodox, in any field of life, are the standpatters, the holders back, the dumb Johns who never learn to think for themselves.

After rescue of a drowning victim, says this amazing booklet, "lock your hands, underneath his stomach and lift several times, in order to force the water out of his air passage and stomach." Page the American Red Cross—the venerable medical advisers of that organization will be gratified to find that somebody still recommends the notorious jackknife atrocity, which was quietly, oh, quite quietly deleted from the Red Cross manual of first aid about three years ago, after a lot of unpleasant criticism had been leveled at the trick by some cynical doc. The tyros who got up this insurance company's first aid booklet evidently felt a little uneasy about the stunt, for they immediately add: "Do not lose much time in doing this."

I might add: "Do not stop to shave or mow the lawn, either, but begin artificial respiration at once." In fact, there are a lot of little things one should not wait to do in such an emergency, and no doubt these big insurance corporations and the American Red Cross will learn what they are in time.

Of course, the orthodox little boys who got out the first aid booklet let for the insurance people place the victim's arm under his head. They have the audacity to call that the Schaefer method. Schaefer, however, has never approved the innovation of the Red Cross or allied organizations. He advised that BOTH arms be extended above the head.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Banana.
"Wife peels banana then scrapes all the outside of the pulp off, discards it and feeds the children only the inside. I say the whole pulp is good food for children. (E. G.)"

"Answer—if the banana is quite ripe enough to feed the baby the surface of the peel is golden yellow, flecked with brown spots (not black bruise marks). The pulp is soft and sweet, but not mushy. The entire pulp is suitable for feeding babies four months old or over."

The "Brady Baby Book" gives instructions about this and other things. Send a dime and a stamped envelope, bearing your address and ask for a copy.

Spinal Curvature.
Daughter, 15, has developed within past two years slight curvature of spine. One shoulder and one hip is noticeably lower than the other. (Mrs. E. W. L.)

Answer—Appeal to the girl's pride to assume a proper posture. See that her school desk fits her. Swimming (breast stroke), riding (astride), running, climbing are good exercises to encourage symmetrical development. Vocal lessons and training are excellent. No piano or violin. No carrying of books or other burdens under arm. Carrying burdens on the head or on the back is beneficial.

Young Man's Certificate.
What did you say about the question of the bridegroom's health certificate? Did you say the bride should be excused from furnishing a certificate? (Mrs. H. E. J.)
Answer—I said the young man should bring with him the certificate of a reputable physician who has examined him and found no reason why he should not marry. If the young man believes he is able to perform his marital duty, he will bring this certificate when he asks the father or guardian's consent or approval. I say, the bride should be excused from furnishing any such evidence of fitness for marriage.

(Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites
By Hal Cochran
Of course the Tynies grew tired out, but soon they heard a wee bit about "We've got enough big Christmas trees to make a load. Let's stop."

"These trees will all be shipped away on trucks and big flat cars today. You Tynmites all look so tired I fear that you will drop." "Well, I'll admit I am tired, lad, and frankly I am very glad to rest a while," said Duncy. "Can we watch men load the trees?"

The elf replied, "Why, sure you can." And then, up walked a lumber man. "He loads them," said the elf, "and he can lift them all with ease."

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—The exigencies of politics and a bit of good fortune combined have worked to give a veteran member of the house his big opportunity before he moves out of the national limelight on next March 4.

He is James W. Collier of Mississippi, 60-year-old chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Collier has been a member of the house since 1908. He will have rounded out 24 years of service when this session of congress comes to a close on March 4th and he retires again to private life.

Most of these years have been spent quietly by the Mississippi on the ways and means committee. Gets Important Post.

Last year when the democrats came in control of the house, after a lapse of so many years, Collier found himself in one of the most powerful and coveted positions in the house.

It was the chairmanship of the ways and means committee.

That position was destined to be of exceptional importance in the 72nd congress. The troublesome task of balancing the budget, possible tariff changes and other things had to be dealt with.

Collier, however, had hardly picked up his gavel when illness forced him out. It became necessary, for Crisp of Georgia, the next democrat in rank, to carry on in his stead. In one session Crisp became a national figure.

Meanwhile, Collier was slowly regaining his health.

Just prior to the convening of the short session, a supreme court decision affecting the Mississippi redistricting law was handed down. It forced Collier to run as a candidate at large to retain his seat in congress. He declined, and must retire on March 4th.

His Opportunity
But he's back "on the hill" these days in his seat as chairman of ways and means. His committee has before it now the question of beer, and before the session ends legislation of the most vital importance to the nation will pass before him for review and disposition.

The last three months of an unbroken congressional career extending over 24 years have been reserved for him to make or perhaps break himself.

Barbs
"After all, horse sense is only stable thinking," observes an industrialist. Yes, but it's the lack of it that keeps congress stalled.

Scroffing at suggestions of his friends that he be made Ambassador to France, "Jimmy" Walker says "running an embassy is an expensive business." As if his running a city wasn't for New York!

A man should marry the girl who chooses him, says a Northwestern University professor. We'd like to see him get out of it!

Hospital officials announce that babies now are $15 to $30 cheaper than they used to be. And the quality's just the same.

Well, there's one hopeful thing about the depression anyway, as long as the economists try to cure it the patient must still be alive.

Men will "walk out" to sea to fight in the next war, says J. E. Williamson, the undersea explorer. Picture diving-suit doughboys chucking meimails under the chin and going A. W. O. L. off the Grand Banks.

President-elect Roosevelt makes a hobby of stamp collecting. If the debt cancellations have their way that's about all he'll get from our European neighbors.

Pinching times have been a boon to at least one industry. The snuff manufacturers are paying extra dividends.

The Spaniards are catching onto the idea of republican government. The Spanish cabinet has decided to spend $500,000 for a garage for its members' 14 automobiles. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Right here in this "capital of fast living, unconventional and sinful folk" (as someone has described New York) is a sedate old hotel which won't stand for smoking in the dining room!

The ban is enforced as rigidly upon the men as upon the women. They may light up their cigars, pipes or cigars in the lobby or anywhere else in the house, but they'd better not try in the dining room.

This quaint hostelry is down near Washington Square, in a neighborhood where the diminishing forces of the Victorians make a touching last stand.

A visit to some such place as this hotel drives home the realization of how quickly we forget the conventions we put behind us. It was no further back than the gay Nineties when the late, late genius, George C. Boldt, gave the town something to gasp about by permitting a man to light a cigar in the Palm room of the first Waldorf. A mere decade ago it still was a bit out of place for a woman to puff a cigaret in some New York cafes.

A Victorian Lair
To enter this hotel dining room is to step, by some magic, into another century.

The shindig palaces of Broadway are as far away as Greece; the circus settings of today's high society just as far. The yell and roar of a great city suffusing its growing veins are not heard in here. And not at all surprisingly, there's not much seen of youth.

Here are gray heads, sober, serious, ceremoniously practicing the etiquette of another day.

A little old picture-lady hobbles to her table, with gold-capped cane. Elderly men, at once stiff and gentle, are at tables with wives who accept the Queen of England as their fashion plate. Everybody appears to know everybody else—with proud reservations. You just feel that a raised voice would bring startled glances.

Prim waitresses in uniform—none of them young, none of them pretty, but all of them neat and so solicitous—move about with the air of servants who have been long in their places.

So This Is New York!
Most of the guests are permanent residents or here for the season (a season for them, I suppose, means the opera, Carnegie hall and not less on the cold days).

The most striking guest is an ex-minister who, in his declining years, has taken to the study of art. He has models come to the hotel, which may be proper enough, but nevertheless some eyebrows are raised at such goings-on.

For awhile a strange blond woman was registered, and made friendly advances to the habitués. But somehow she just didn't fit—her type must have been considered a trifle "tacky." The freezing out was casual but pointed.

A nice young couple from the south—responsible for my introduction to the place—stopped there on recommendation of straight-laced elders.

They behaved themselves appropriately, of course, suffering in silence. After a week or so they had some speaking acquaintances and one kindly old fellow with a twinkle in his eye told them:

"You'll find it pleasant here, I hope. But it's no place to be giddy—if you must be giddy."

It cost the government an extra $1700 for a sedan to accommodate Postmaster General Brown's stik topper. Just another instance of the high overhead at Washington.

Give Beauty Essentials To Intimates

BY ELSIE PIERCE

For sisters, members of the intimate family, intimate friends, and for limited purses, a gift of toilet preparations is at once glamorous and practical. Choose wisely and well. Bear in mind the individual's actual requirements. Buy the separate bottles and jars. Assemble them yourself and use your ingenuity in wrapping attractively. No need to pay for a handsome gift box or leather case if you can't afford them, for after all, its contents, not the package that will do the good work.

Dry Skin and Cold Weather

Are you selecting creams and lotions for a skin that is usually dry? Then choose a cream for cleansing, a mild skin tonic (not an astringent for that is too strong and too drying) an emollient cream for soothing and supplying the skin to soften it when it becomes chapped or coarse after exposure, to keep it silky and lovely. And to give the skin a beautiful finish, as well as to protect it, choose one of the fluffy finishing creams. There you have the four important preparations for the dry skin and all that this type really needs. Add to that very fine face powder, a cream rouge to harmonize with the coloring of the recipient, a lipstick of the same tone, a mascara and eye-shadow compact if you wish and you have a complete gift that will win you a year's blessings.

These preparations are suitable for the normal type of skin too, during the cold weather for cold blasts take away from the skin the natural oil and humidity that characterizes the young, normal skin.

Oily Skin

Some skins remain very oily through burning sun and winter winds. For this type, nourishing creams are unnecessary. Cream or soap for cleansing. An astringent is recommended here to dry out the excess oil and counteract a shiny nose. A liquid powder or finishing lotion to protect the skin, keep powder-cling and keep moisture and shine away. It's all so simple, isn't it, when you know what you're about and ask specifically for the right preparations to conform with the precise needs of the individual. A liquid or compact rouge for the city skin, lipstick, harmonize, a slightly heavier powder, and eye make-up if it is used by the person to whom the gift is going. In the matter of make-up it is very important to know the personal preferences for the brands and colors are endless.

Hand Preparations

Hand lotions, creams, jellies and whiteners are sorely needed this time of the year and since it is said that this is a practical Christmas, why not give hand-beautifiers.

Your Birthday

"CAPRICORN"

If December 24th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., from 5:30 p. m. to 6:45 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Influences operative on this date are not conducive to the ultimate success of ventures begun. It would seem advisable to postpone for some days the putting off of any new plans or ideas into operation. This does not mean that ideas and inspirations received, and plans formulated on this December 24th will prove of no avail. Simply, it seems advisable to delay for a period, acting upon them.

Born on this December 24th, the child will be a healthy normal child, and will most probably lead a rather routine life. In his early teens,

Make Your Clothes Fit Your Type

BY JOAN SAVOY

Every woman has felt that yearning to appear just like Garbo or some other favorite star of the silver screen.

Now that motion picture stars have achieved a practical sense of good dress and their costumes are in excellent taste, it is possible to wear Hollywood fashions and take on a bit of glamor.

For there is one thing motion picture stars know, one and all. That is how to pick costumes that dramatize their personalities. If anyone is playing an ingenue part she knows the value of simple, young styles. Sophisticates know the appeal of a seemingly simple dress that is so intricate nobody can copy it exactly.

A Smart Ingenue Frock

If you are the ingenue type, this new pebbled-crepe frock (left), in the latest "dirty pink" shade that Paris sponsors, will appeal to you. It is an exquisite ash-of-roses pink. It is a gown worn by Susan Fleming in "He Learned About Women" and has something brand new in its slashed neckline and clips both at the front and out where the shoulder line meets the slit-puffed sleeves. The two center clips at the throat are really a cute little buckle that snaps shut.

For the more sophisticated type of women this goldleaf rough crinkled crepe, worn by Tallulah Bankhead in "Faithless," will appeal.

It has a unique collar, made in scarf fashion, with the scarf cut in one with half the blouse. In addition to draping to make the collar, this scarf crosses the shoulder to hang to the hemline behind. The sleeves are tight and long and cut in one with the waist.

The child will possibly show a decided aptitude in one of the arts, probably writing or painting. He may or may not follow this inclination as a life work, but it should remain with him as a hobby. An idealistic and dreamy mind, inclined to highly fantastic and imaginative wanderings. Not a practical youngster.

If December 24th is your birthday you will in all probability enjoy a long and eventful life, one that will lead you through all sorts of experiences in all parts of the world. You have a nature that constantly demands that you be doing something new, something interesting, and preferably something creative. You do not have the patience to carry out routine duties nor to follow other people's commands and plans. Rather, you create yourself, put your ideas into practice and when they begin to take firm root, on you must go to something else.

Yours is a free and easy nature. You make friends quickly, wherever you are. There is something within you that holds them even though you do not see them for years at a time. You are extremely fair in your dealings with others and are the type of person who will ask of no one what you would not be willing to do for yourself. You take love lightly, you believe that marriage would bore you and probably you would be restless if you felt that you had to lead a settled married existence. Whether man or woman, you enjoy children but do not crave to have any of your own. You probably prefer to be called Aunt or Uncle by all the kids in town.

Successful People Born on December 24th:

- 1—Christopher (Kio) Carson, pianist and soldier.
- 2—William, M. Porter, ("York's Tall Son"), journalist.
- 3—Henry, Russell, song composer.
- 4—William Frederick Poole, librarian.
- 5—John R. Tucker, jurist and statesman, of Va.
- 6—Samuel P. Duffield, physician.

JAUNTY JUMPER DRESS

If budding daughter is acting to try her skill as dressmaker, let her launch into sewing this jaunty jumper dress.

It is such a simple little affair to tackle and just as smart and fresh as paint when finished.

The jumper skirt is straight with an inverted pleat at the center-front to give it ample fullness. It is attached to the simple bodice with its darling suspender straps. As for the guimpe, it is the popular tailored type.

Being smart, no doubt, she'll make the jumper of mouse-grey woolen mixture and the guimpe of pale grey plain woolen.

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

PROPRIETIES

My dear Mrs. Post: What is the correct way for me to introduce my new husband to a friend who does not know my married name?

Answer: "Miss Brown, may I introduce my husband, John Smith?"

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be improper for me to go to the hospital with my fiancé and stay there for several days while he is operated on for appendicitis? The reason for this is that he has no family and the hospital is a hundred miles away.

Answer: Under the circumstances, it does seem narrow-minded to say "no." But Mrs. Grundy's criticism can be extremely unpleasant. I would avoid it, if I were you, by staying at a hotel or boarding-house near the hospital and go to see him every day.

My dear Mrs. Post: Would there be any difficulty in bringing in a colored cook when my only other maid is white? They will naturally be thrown together very much.

Answer: This is solely a question of how each would feel about working with the other—and the situation should be explained to both before engaging the cook.

My dear Mrs. Post: I accepted an invitation to dinner, which I will not be able to return in my own home because I have none at present. I live in a rooming house. And I cannot possibly afford to entertain these people at a hotel or restaurant. Is giving a dinner, or any kind of party, the only way that I can show my appreciation for their hospitality?

Answer: In the first place, it is not always necessary to return it in kind. You might ask your hostess to go with you to a movie or you might go to a tea room for afternoon tea, or you can return her hospitality in many ways other than by giving a party. You can make her a small gift or even take trouble about something to show your appreciation.

SATISFIED PRISONER

Evansville, Ind. (P)—Judge Lorin Kieley tries to satisfy his "customers." When he was sentencing Alonzo Baysinger for stealing $100 worth of jewelry he asked him whether he preferred the penitentiary or the state farm. "State farm," replied Baysinger promptly. "Do you think six months would be about right," asked Kieley. Baysinger agreed. "Are you well satisfied now?" was the next question. "Yes, thanks," replied Baysinger.

Then she laughed, sitting alone in the car.

Jimmy had wanted that contract "she" told the scattered fruit. "It meant a lot to him. But he didn't get it. I did. I'm beating him at his own game. He wanted the contract so he could have more money for Natalie Webber."

Jimmy was better now. The wound, accidentally inflicted in the woods, when an assailant had shot him, mistaking him for Jack, was healed. But he and Natalie Webber were seen everywhere together. Grace had applied for a divorce. But somehow she had let the matter slide. She couldn't quite believe Jimmy was going out of her life. She had been gay and gallant and mocked at sentiment, she knew, but underneath she believed that marriage should be something firm and shining and triumphant that could withstand sea winds and autumn rains—aluring young widows such as Natalie Webber and money—

A man's voice interrupted her musings.

There are Some Guideposts To Happily Married Life

BY DOROTHY DIX

"How can a girl test the quality of a man and find out before marriage whether he is her real soulmate and the GREAT and ONLY for her, and somebody she would enjoy spending the next forty or fifty years with?" asks a young woman.

"Well, daughter, it is a pretty difficult thing to do for when a man is courting a girl he puts on a protective coloring, so to speak, that disguises his natural tastes and habits and makes him appear the answer to a maiden's prayers. Under its influence a tightwad will frequently become a spender pro tem, a grouchy fellow will be the life of the party, a selfish egotist will be converted into a doorman for a woman to walk over, and a dummy will burst into song in praise of his lady's eyebrows.

So a man's line of love-making doesn't give you his number as a husband, because his practice may not match his campaign promises. Nor can you put any faith in the traditional landmarks, for such occasions made and provided. Because a youth is sober, moral and industrious and a good son is no sign whatever that he will make a desirable husband.

Some of the best men in the world, judged by moral standards are the meanest husbands. A man may be as domestic as the house cat and so a good sport or a quitter; whether he sulks and pouts like a child when things go wrong or laughs them off like a man. All these are infallible tests as to the sort of husband a man will make.

CHRISTMAS CANDIES

Chocolate Fudge (The old reliable)

3 cups sugar 3 squares choc-
3 tablespoons olate butter 1 teaspoon
1 1/2 cups milk vanilla
2 cup nuts

Mix sugar, butter, milk and chocolate. Boil gently, stirring frequently, until soft ball forms when poured from spoon into cup cold water. Remove candy from fire and do not touch nor move for 20 minutes. Then add vanilla and beat until very thick and creamy. Add nuts and pour fudge onto buttered pan. Flatten top with hands or a knife. When firm, cut into squares or rolls.

The fudge can be kneaded into a roll and wrapped in waxed papers. Slices may then be cut off when desired.

Glazed Nuts

2 cups sugar 1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup water tartar
1 teaspoon 1 cup whole nut cream of meats

Mix sugar, water, salt and cream of tartar. Boil gently and without stirring until syrup forms a light brown color. Add nuts and pour onto buttered pan. When cool, mark into squares.

popped corn vinegar
1 cup roasted 2 tablespoons peanuts butter
1 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon soda
1-3 cup molasses 1/2 teaspoon
1-3 cup water vanilla

Freshen corn by heating in oven if freshly popped corn is not used. Mix sugar, molasses, water, vinegar and butter. Boil gently and without stirring until "click" ball forms when portion is tested in cold water. Add soda and mix well. Add vanilla. Pour over corn and peanuts. Mix well with wooden spoon. Take small portions and shape into bars or balls.

Texas Troopers Leave State Oil Field Area

Tyler, Texas.—Texas National Guard troops have evacuated the east Texas oil field after a 16 months' occupation to enforce controlled production.

The troops moved out late Wednesday simultaneously with the filing of three injunction suits in United States District court challenging complete shutdown orders made effective in the field by the Texas railroad commission at noon last Saturday. The commission state oil regulatory body, stopped the flow of more than 9,000 wells until Jan. 1 for the announced purpose of gauging bottom hole pressure.

Two weeks ago the United States Supreme court ruled that Gov. Ross S. Sterling exceeded his authority in sending troops into the field last year to enforce proration rules.

Here's Good Example Of Amazing Defense

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Every once in a while in Rubber games two strong players get together against very weak opponents. Although the results of these rubbers are not absolutely foregone conclusions, generally you will find the strong pair on the long end of the score—usually by a good margin—if there is no one on the weak side to take control of the bidding or the defense to enable it to get anything at all out of the cards. However, I watched a rubber yesterday wherein the weak side did even worse than usual. It held sufficient to win a 1200-point rubber and go out at least four times. It eventually lost an 18-point rubber. North and South, the strong pair, scored one of their games on the following remarkable hand, which serves as an excellent text for a sermon on "How Not to Play Bridge."

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Help Children Discover Definite Purpose in Life

BY ANGELO PATRI

Many a mother has seen her well cared for child grow into the heedless, helpless adolescent. She followed a careful routine day after day, year after year. This child was fed the right kind of food. He ate regularly and slept soundly. He played with the other children and got along all right in the elementary grades. When he reached the high school years he began to flounder, lost interest in school and said he wanted to go to work.

"Don't you know you can't go to work? In the first place you have no training. What could you do?"

"I can do lots of things. I want to be an aviator."

If all the adolescents who want to be aviators were placed shoulder to shoulder — If they don't want to be aviators, without training, they want to be engineers, or bankers. Blithely they skip a matter of twenty years and seat themselves in the chairs of the mighty. It is no wonder that they grow impatient and teachers wrathful. But that gets us nowhere. Our task is to help this purposeless, helpless, ignorant child and direct him toward a definite purpose.

A purpose in life is like an anchor. It steadies the drifting mind, holds it until it can get hold of its life and go on its way. How can we get children to have a purpose? We cannot give them one. We cannot force them to select one. Purposes do not come that way. They spring out of the child's own mind and we cannot touch that save indirectly. But that is something hopeful. If we can stimulate a child's interest we induce him to create a purpose.

Adolescent children are childish in this particular. Their bodies may be mature but their minds are still childish in the field of purposeful life work. Nature has granted human children a long span of infancy. They are supposed to investigate things, experience many ways of creating and changing and adjusting the ideas that their environment stimulates. It is by aiding this exploring notion that we can help a wavering adolescent to steady himself and get down to work.

Along about the time the boy begins to want to build things we begin to offer him work experience. We have to refrain from putting our notions of a job on him before his own. We must keep that to ourselves. First let the child select what he likes to do and feed him along that line as long as he will accept it. When he shifts it will probably be along the same line with modifications and these modifications continue until the original notion has been developed fully, or has been fully absorbed in another scheme.

In talking to the confused, purposeless adolescent boys and girls I have found that in many instances the parents or the schools, or both, had held to a set line of instructions for the children without stopping to ask if it was really what the child needed and could use. People hate to think that a child of their own is so ordinary but the truth is that many, many children are just that. What else could they be?

Begin early to train a child to work and when he finds a job he seems to like, foster his interest and activity in it so that his purpose matures. If you do this you will not have a purposeless child telling you that he is going to be an aviator next Monday morning.

Captain Lost To Cage Team This Evening

Chester Makofski, Veteran Guard, Is Injured In Fall

Menasha—Crippled by the loss of Captain Chester Makofski, veteran guard, the Menasha high school basketball squad will open its 1932-33 season in a non-conference clash with the Plymouth team in Butte des Morts auditorium at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Makofski suffered a severe strain in a fall at the high school Thursday and probably will be confined to his bed until early next week.

Although Friday's contest will open the season for the Caldermen, it will be the fourth game for Plymouth, now credited with two victories and one loss. The Menasha cagers will play the first conference tilt on their schedule against the West DePere aggregation here Jan. 6.

Either Block or Arent will start at center for Menasha, but the remainder of the lineup will remain in doubt until shortly before the game. Wideman and Webster are likely choices for the two guard positions, and Novakowski is expected to see action as one of the forwards.

Menasha Society

Menasha—Menasha Elks have issued invitations for their annual New Year's eve party in the club rooms Dec. 31. S. W. Dickens is chairman in charge of arrangements.

Arrangements are being completed for the third annual Menasha high school band-alumni ball Dec. 28. The Ripon college orchestra will furnish the music, cards will be played, and a Christmas feature is being planned by the social committee consisting of Delores Christensen, Donald Dornbrook, Janet Judd, Mary Jane Sensenbrenner, and William Snyder. Each person will bring a 10 cent article and presents will be exchanged at the party. The alumni, board of education and the faculty have been invited.

B. B. B. sorority will meet in the Congregational church parlors Friday evening. A Christmas party is planned.

Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Patrick's church was entertained at its annual Christmas party in St. Patrick's school hall Thursday evening. Refreshments were served.

Fruit, vegetables, and other food-stuffs were brought for admission to the Congregational Sunday school Christmas entertainment in the church gymnasium Thursday evening. The food will be distributed to needy families.

Freshman Class to Present "Mock Trial"

Menasha—"Mock Trial," a one-act play showing the procedure of a court, will be presented in the Menasha high school assembly approximately two weeks after the Christmas vacation by a freshman class in citizenship under the direction of A. J. Armstrong. The play will depict the trial of Joseph Wiggins on charges brought by one Arthur Higgins.

Olene Block will appear as Joseph Wiggins; James Fitzgibbons as Puffer, Wiggins' attorney; Eleanor Wilda as Arthur Higgins, the plaintiff; Edna G. Gassberg, Higgins' attorney; Zella Wood and Jack Evenstead as Bill Jones and Sam Wheeler, witnesses; Robert Randall as the judge; and Roy Cox as the clerk.

Robert Beachkofski, Gilbert Wilmont, Lloyd Ford, Russell Zager, Clement Webster, Joseph Gammy, Lorraine Korth, Irene Romnek, Margaret Braun, Dorothy Cheslock, Franklin Rehdhauser and Harold Larsen will be members of the jury.

Kellnhauser Bowls

Menasha—Toppling 633 pins in three games, R. Kellnhauser of the Rippl Grocers led Hendy Recreation league leggers on Hendy Allys Thursday evening. Kellnhauser was credited with individual counts of 175, 214 and 244 while his team took two out of three games from the Spots.

H. Weisgerber's 616 series helped the Anderson Cafe win two out of three games from the Blue Bills while Noel duplicated the score and helped the Hendy Recreation team to wins in two out of three games with the Hop Aromas.

The Acker Nite Hawks won two games from the Engravers; the Hoppy Meats won a pair from the Meyer Service Station and the Gear Dairymen took two out of three tilts from the Pankratz Fuel.

Nicolet News Joins Press Association

Menasha—The Nicolet News, Menasha's high school student newspaper, has joined the National Scholastic Press association which is sponsored by the University of Minnesota. The purpose of the organization is to constructively criticize the publications of member schools. About 2,500 schools are included in the association.

Enrollment Increases In Evening Classes

Menasha—Menasha's evening school enrollment increased 45 per cent during the three-year period since the 1928-29 term, according to statistics released by the state board of vocational education. Present enrollment is 383 students.

The increase throughout the entire state during the three-year period totaled 16,371; students, the figures indicated.

Mrs. Gazecki's Will Admitted to Probate

Menasha—The will of Mrs. Katharine Gazecki, Menasha, disposing of $1,000 in personal property and $12,000 in real estate, has been admitted to probate in the county court of Judge D. E. McDonald at Oshkosh.

A bicycle shop, musical shop and garage, is left to a son, Philip Gazecki, in trust for 10 years. Joseph Gazecki, another son, is to have the use of the premises, rent-free, and the net income is to be distributed among five sons, Joseph, Frank, Leonard, Philip and Edward Gazecki. The will also provides that the trust be terminated under special conditions.

Bequest of certain real estate is made to four daughters, Agnes McDowell, Eleanor Dickens, Clara Warden and Helen Greener. Any residue is to be divided equally among the nine children and Philip Gazecki is to act as executor.

Guard Against Fires, Menasha Chief Warns

Menasha—Chief Paul Theimer of the Menasha fire department has issued his annual reminder of precautions which should be taken to prevent fire tragedies during the holiday season.

The chief warned against the use of lighted candles on Christmas trees and against smoking near the tree or while light wrappings are being removed from Christmas packages.

Mechanical toys that use alcohol, gasoline or kerosene as a source of heat or power are classed as extremely dangerous in the hands of inexperienced children. The chief also advised against keeping the Christmas tree in the house after it has become extremely dry.

Children's Party at Library on Saturday

Menasha—The Menasha public library will sponsor its annual children's Christmas party in the library children's room Saturday afternoon. Miss Jean McGillan, a member of the library staff, will be in charge of the program.

Lyman Is Invited to Inauguration Ceremony

Menasha—Chief of Police James Lyman has been invited to attend the inauguration of incoming state officials at Madison Jan. 2. The chief's invitation was received Thursday from Lieutenant Governor-elect Thomas J. O'Malley, a former resident of Menasha.

POST GRADS WIN

Neenah—The post-graduate basketball team, playing in the high school intramural tournament, won its second game Thursday noon by defeating the Mitten's team 11 and 6 at the school gymnasium. Beginning next week games will be played both at noon and after the afternoon school session.

Check Incomes Of Bootleggers

Two Men From State Tax Division Conducting Investigations

Neenah—A checkup of unreported incomes of soft drink parlor proprietors and some alleged bootleggers in Neenah, Menasha, and Oshkosh is nearing completion.

Two men from the state tax division established headquarters in Oshkosh several months ago and have been conducting the investigations. Although no official report is available, it was certain that the collections of back taxes due the state will total more than $20,000.

Four prosecutions have resulted and others may follow. During the fall nearly 200 persons in the three cities of the county, whose activities in alleged illicit liquor traffic had netted them income on which they failed to make proper report, were examined. Satisfactory statements were made in the majority of cases while discrepancies between estimates and involuntary reports in other cases may lead to further action after Jan. 1.

The additional money retrieved for the state will reflect in additional income obtained by Winnebago and the cities involved.

Cudahy Airs Woes In Divorce Action

Accuses Wife of Cruelty—Says She Disrupted His Home Life

Milwaukee—(P)—Michael F. Cudahy, meat packer and scion of one of the state's oldest families, in a court commissioner's chambers late yesterday revealed some of the discords that disturbed life in his palatial mansion.

He is suing for divorce from Alice Dickson Pinto Cudahy, and he testified at an adverse examination brought by Mrs. Cudahy.

Troubles started, the millionaire litigant said, soon after a romantic courtship on board a yacht which ended from port to port in Lake Michigan in 1921. As Cudahy spoke he fumbled a sheaf of papers nervously, and referred often to notes for data to support his charge that Mrs. Cudahy is an emotionally unstable woman who treated him cruelly.

Cudahy charged that his wife was constantly dissatisfied, that when things did not go to her liking she threatened suicide, that she lived extravagantly, that she opened his personal letters, that she was intolerant of his religion and that she was inconsiderate and snobbish toward servants. His parents, Cudahy said, had taught him to live in comparative ingenuity, but his wife, he said, had no tolerance for his mode of life. He was obliged, for the sake of his peace of mind, to leave his Terrace-ave home in 1929.

Cudahy last Monday was ordered to pay his wife temporary alimony of $1,500 a month.

Christmas Pageants to Be Given at Churches

Neenah—"The Field of the Shepherds" is the title of a Christmas pageant to be given in Whiting Memorial Baptist church at 7:30 Sunday evening. It is the story of the conversion to the Christian religion of a sceptic as he comes to know the power of the Christ Child at work. About 30 people will take part.

"The Dawn of Peace," a Christmas pageant, will be presented in St. Paul's English Lutheran church at 7:30 Friday evening. A large cast will take part in the production.

Seventh Grade Pupils Present Two-Act Play

Neenah—"Old Jake Schneider," a two-act play, was presented by pupils of the seventh grade, Neenah junior high school, as a feature of the Neenah Rotary club's Christmas party in Valley Inn Thursday noon. The student players were directed by Miss Clara Jahmig, and the Rev. E. C. Kollath was in charge of the program.

Neenah Society

Neenah—Women's auxiliary to Neenah aerie of Eagles enjoyed a Christmas party in aerie hall Thursday evening. Santa gifts were exchanged and lunch was served under the direction of the December committee.

Cards were played, honors in schafkopf going to Mrs. A. Cummings, Mrs. Eliza Larsen and Mrs. Ruth Schneider and in whist to Mrs. Charles Engel and Mrs. Estelle Williams. The auxiliary will sponsor one of a series of public card parties in aerie hall next Thursday afternoon.

Twin City Business and Professional women's club was entertaining at a Christmas party following a 6:30 dinner at the Sign of the Fox Wednesday evening. A Christmas story and Negro dialect poem by Miss Anne Pleasants and violin selections by Bobby Engler were features of the program.

Pythian Sisters will meet in Castle hall at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Routine work will be done.

Because of Christmas eve, the meeting of Danish Brotherhood scheduled for Saturday evening has been advanced to Friday.

BOWLING POSTPONED

Neenah—In deference to pre-holiday activities, the Kimberly Clark bowling league postponed regular competition Thursday evening. The league will resume play on the Neenah alleys next Thursday evening.

THE CORNERSTONE of the Washington monument was laid on July 4, 1848, and the monument was finally completed in 1884. After progressing to a height of 156 feet in eight years, work on the structure was suspended because of lack of funds, then because of the Civil War, and finally because the foundation was not believed to be strong enough. In 1876 work was continued. The base was strengthened, and rebuilding of the shaft begun in 1880. The height of the shaft is 555 feet.

Japs Ask Use of Road For Carrying Troops

Tokio—(P)—The foreign office discussed today a request of Japanese military officials at Harbin, Manchuria, that the Chinese Eastern railway supply transportation for a Japanese expedition in the direction of Pogramichayna, Siberia.

Russian officials of the Chinese Eastern railway, who said the matter must be referred to Moscow, had not yet received a reply from that government. Military leaders indicated they intended to carry on anti-guerrilla operations on the Eastern line of the C. E. R., regardless of Moscow's attitude, but insisted it would be a minor campaign.

The only opposition anticipated was from small irregular Chinese bands since insurgency against the Manchukuo government was eradicated on the western division of the C. E. R. The time was considered propitious to clear up the Eastern line.

City Will Present Trees to Indigents

Neenah—Neenah residents who are unable to purchase Christmas trees this season may have the trees decorating the downtown business district for the asking Mayor George E. Sande has announced. The trees will be picked up by street department workers Saturday morning and will be ready for distribution at the city tool house on Main-st by Saturday afternoon.

PETITION FOR PROBATE

Neenah—A petition for probate of the will of John W. Powers of Neenah, involving personal property estimated at $6,000, has been made in the county court of Judge D. E. McDonald at Oshkosh. Hearing has been set for Jan. 3.

Plan Contracts for 850 Acres of Peas

BY W. F. WINSEY
According to present plans, the Fuhremann Canning Co., of this city will begin making contracts with farmers in February for 850 acres of peas the coming season, and possibly more.

The canned goods on hand are now moving slowly but will all be disposed of before June at the present rate.

As the crops were damaged by pea lice the past season, the company proposes to try a house-resistant strain of seed the coming season.

The company will continue soil testing, started several years ago, for all pea growers who want such service.

Through recommending the use of the peas as a nurse crop the company has largely increased the acreages of alfalfa and sweet clover in Outagamie-co.

As the pea crop prepares the soil for raising other legumes and is harvested early, it makes an excellent nurse crop for alfalfa and sweet clover, according to George Feulner, fieldman for the company.

Embargo Prevents Sales of Cattle

BY W. F. WINSEY
Greenville—According to William Menning, the New York embargo has prevented the sale of cattle in his vicinity, and the visits of all eastern cattle buyers.

No farmers in his vicinity are buying dairy feeds as was formerly their custom and are getting along as best they can with the supplies of feeds produced on their farm. A carload of oats recently arrived at Readfield. The price is 12 1/2 cents per bushel. "What did the farmers get who raised the oats?", inquired Mr. Menning.

One of Mr. Menning's neighbors recently sold a boar pig weighing 300 pounds and one and one-half years old for $2.50, for which he paid $4.00 as a young animal.

"The present prices of farm products, leaves farmers no money for buying feeds or anything else, according to Mr. Menning."

Branding Irons Again Used in Cattle Country

Denver—(P)—The branding iron, that scepter of power with which the old time western cattle barons stamped their marks upon their steers, is coming back.

Through years of peace and security, many cattlemen have neglected to brand their herds, apparently safe behind wire fences. Lately they have awakened to find their fences cut and cattle missing.

So roundups, even behind fences, are here again in more than ordinary number with the bawling of calves, the shouting of cowboys and the stout smell of burning hair and hide filling crisp mountain air on hundreds of scattered ranches.

Aroused against the menace of rustlers, Rocky mountain cattlemen from the dusty banks of the Rio Grande to the wind-swept northern border are doing this and other things to combat the thieves. Their battle is not the spectacular man-hunt of the days of the running iron and mavericks. Rather it is a slow, piece-by-piece campaign against thieves who ride in trucks and cars—rustlers who have become so bold they impudently steal steers and calves from the very door yards of the rancher and speed away to market.

The Colorado Board of Brand Inspectors, which keeps a watchful eye on all cattle coming to market here, has warned cattlemen to revive their brands, pointing out that the ranchers are no longer secure behind three strands of barbed wire and a tradition of death for rustlers.

Cases of altered brands are scarce, partly because there are few men left who, with running iron and rope, can force a brand, and partly because there is little need to change a brand when there are so many unbranded cattle.

The depression, with its lean and hungry days for many, is blamed for some of the thefts in Colorado, Wyoming and Montana but New Mexico cattlemen have found the same depression has lowered a certain type of rustling. No longer do organized bands steal whole herds and change their brands, thus converting them to their own herds. Cattle are too cheap to justify the necessary organization and, again, there are few left to do it.

Instead there is the quick dash to a favored grazing spot, swift work with wire-cutters and prod poles and a half dozen fine steers are away to the market while the rancher sleeps. Two men can do it quietly and quickly and the rancher may not discover for days the steers are gone.

Mrs. Bertha Benson, secretary of the New Mexico Cattle Growers association said today the association, in the years of security, had reduced its rewards for cattle thieves from $250 to $100 but despite this several convictions had been obtained.

Jobless Man Wounds Two Union Agents

Plea for Work Fell on Deaf Ears, New York Waiter Tells Police

New York.—(P)—Benny Glast, a waiter out of a job, believes that in real life the violent action should take place offstage.

Five hundred members of Waiters Union, Local No. 1, gathered last night at Beethoven hall on the east side to nominate officers. As the meeting swung into action, Glast, tipped up an aisle, and mounted the stage.

"Could I see you outside a moment?" he whispered to Business

Agents Jack Lasher and Morris Turkel.

He ushered them into an ante room, closed the door softly, and drew a pistol.

"I didn't want to talk to you," police quoted him as saying, "I wanted to give it to you."

Then, so police were told, he fired two shots that dropped the business agents. One was wounded in the groin and the other in the thigh.

Fiercely now, Glast stalked back on to the stage, the smoking gun in his hand.

"I gave it to 'em," he announced, before the 500. "I took them outside so you fellows wouldn't get into trouble. I'll make the sacrifice for you men."

There were a few scattered cries from the audience.

"Scram!" some one shouted. "Run for it before the cops get here."

At the back of the hall a policeman appeared.

"Drop that gun," he commanded, "or I will kill you."

"Come on," said Glast, laying down the gun. "I won't run away."

At a police station, he said: "I haven't had a job for two years. My wife is starving, my daughter Sylvia has to live with her grandmother in Chicago. I pleaded with Lasher and Turkel six weeks ago to get something for me. They said they couldn't help it, they couldn't do it."

The next day, he asserted, a man who identified himself as a "go-between" visited him and said he could get him a job if he gave him several hundred dollars. Glast said that infuriated him.

Police were told two factions in the union have been at odds. Detectives said some members declared that to get jobs they had to pay persons who hold no office in the union. Others said these statements were made by a faction seeking office.

Glast, the police were told, came here four years ago from Chicago, where he had been business agent of a local.

Farm Earnings Show Big Slump

Average Income Less Than Half What it Was in 1929, Report

Washington.—(P)—Figures detailed at hearings on the appropriation bill for the agriculture department told why there is a farm problem.

Nills A. Olsen, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, put into the record data which showed that the estimated gross income on owner operated farms had dropped from an average of $1,900 in 1929 to $833 in 1932. In these figures were included the value of the food produced and used on the farms. After deducting operating costs and interest charges paid non-farmers, the farmers had, on the basis of partial figures, well below $300 available for capital, labor and management in 1932 as compared to $347 in 1929. The estimated decline in the gross income of agriculture as a whole in the three years was from around $12,000,000,000 to $5,200,000,000.

Almost every statistic furnished to the house appropriations committee by the bureau spoke to the plowman's woe.

"Between 1913 and 1921 taxes doubled," Olsen said. "By 1930, they were about two and one half times what they were before the war, and it is estimated that it requires at the present time around five times as many units of farm commodities as before the war to pay taxes."

He said that during the 5-year period from 1909 to 1914 about 7 1/2 per cent agriculture's income was required to pay taxes, interest on capital and wages for management. By 1932, he testified, taxes and mortgage interest took about 25 per cent.

The sharp rise in the amount of farm mortgage indebtedness also was detailed. In 1910, the figure was given at $3,320,470,000 and in 1930 preliminary estimates placed it at $9,241,390,000, or almost twice the value of the 1932 gross farm income.

Register Care in Handling Parcels

Postal Department Hopes To Reduce Damages To Minimum

Special care is being registered this year by postal employees in the handling of Christmas parcels in an effort to reduce damage to toys and other gifts to a minimum, according to postal officials.

Careful handling of parcels will eliminate criticisms and complaints and add to the Christmas happiness of patrons of the service, they said.

Postal employees also are noting that parcels are being more carefully wrapped according to specifications this year. Careful wrapping will do much toward reducing damage, postal officials said.

The cost to the department for replacement and damage resulting from careless handling of insured Christmas gifts far exceeds the additional cost which careful handling involves, and the damage to either insured, or uninsured parcels spoils Christmas, department officials stated.

There should be a double incentive this year to prevent damages on the part of postal employees—the realization that Christmas gifts bought in these times and entrusted to their care represent a real sacrifice on the part of senders and the fact that damaged gifts, whether merchandise or toys, detract from the joys of Christmas, officials pointed out.

40 Per Cent of Farms Mortgaged

Numerous Foreclosures Reported Throughout United States

Washington—(P)—Approximately 40 per cent of the farm lands in the United States are under mortgage. This was the estimate of Eric Englund, assistant chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, to the house appropriations sub-committee at hearings on the annual agriculture department supply bill.

About 5 per cent of these farms, Englund said, have mortgage debts in excess of their value; about 10 per cent of the farms from 75 to 100 per cent of their value and 21 per cent of the farms from 50 to 75 per cent.

Much of this indebtedness is being wiped out through the drastic foreclosure method, he said.

Englund said that in 1930-31, 2.6 per cent of all farms in the "west-north-central" states were transferred through foreclosure or as the result of mortgage indebtedness.

"In 1931-32," Englund said, "fully 10 per cent of the mortgaged farms were lost. Of course, in addition, many a farmer is barely hanging on after his equity has disappeared."

He put into the record figures on the loss of farms through indebtedness in 15 states in 1931-32, which showed that 2.16 per cent of Ohio farms changed ownership because of inability to pay; 3.01 in Indiana; 2.98 in Illinois; 3.00 in Michigan; 2.83 in Wisconsin; 4.29 in Minnesota; 5.25 in Iowa; 4.21 in Missouri; 5.40 in North Dakota; 4.92 in South Dakota; 3.44 in Nebraska; 3 in Kansas; 3.46 in Montana; 2.63 in Wyoming and 2.75 in Colorado, an average for the 15 of 3.01.

YOUNG TOWNSEND, beautiful mona widow, inherits her husband's millions with the provision that she must not rewed. Her marriage, arranged by her husband's lawyer, who was mona's employer, was a strange affair, leaving her free at the end of a year to become her husband's wife in actuality or secure a divorce. mona, in love with townsend's nephew, BARRY TOWNSEND, agreed to the marriage when she thought Barry was lost to her.

She employs LOTTIE CARR, a fashion model, as her secretary-companion and they set out for South America where Barry and STEVE SACCARRELLI are partners in a diamond mine. mona's brother, BUD, works at the mine. mona hopes for a reconciliation with Barry. She also feels Barry is entitled to a share of his uncle's fortune and wants to find a way to arrange this legally.

Learning that Barry and Steve are on vacation at Holiday Island the girls leave their boat at Port of Spain. There they meet BARRY who takes them to Holiday Island by plane. They arrive as Barry and Steve are at the noon meal. The young men are at the hotel but their greeting lacks warmth. mona wishes she had not come. Barry does not ask for explanations and she cannot make them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

THE maid had brought mona and Lottie up the uncarpeted stairs into the wide halls above. From the landing swung a huge window of shutters which, open now and made fast by means of a rope, looked out on a riot of blossoming hibiscus. Intense greens were dotted with crimson, pink and yellow. A soft breeze stirred the trees, sending in showers of perfume.

The rooms on the second floor were high and, above the doors, were latticed to the ceiling. At either side of each door there were shutters spaced to let in air. The effect was one of marvelous coolness.

"You can't tell secrets here!" Lottie remarked, eyeing this arrangement.

"Heavens, a whisper would be all over the house. I hope nobody uses alarm clock!"

From the windows of the bedroom they could glimpse the sea. It lay shimmering like a softly swaying bit of blue satin rimmed with silver. A necklace of palms fringed the beach and a white boat swung with the lazy tide.

The room contained few pieces of furniture. A huge bed draped with netting stood in the center of the farther wall. There was a dresser, two easy chairs of rattan and a table. mona noted with satisfaction that the room was lighted with electricity and that the bed had a reading lamp attached to its head.

"But there's no bath!" Lottie cried, pointing to a wadded stand Josie had hung towels about and disappeared with two huge pitchers.

Lottie's room, connecting by door and by outer balcony, was similar to mona's.

A knock on the door announced the arrival of the baggage and Florence entered, dragging suitcases and hat boxes after her. The boys, she explained, had brought it to the door but it seemed best not to allow them to disturb mona.

Josie appeared almost immediately carrying pitchers of hot water. mona and Lottie bathed, opening suitcases in search of pajamas, and finally crept beneath the netting for a rest. They were asleep instantly.

Several hours later mona awoke suddenly. Lottie, a veritable sea nymph in green, was bending over her.

"I've been out to bathe—not in the sea, just the pool," Lottie announced. "Josie told me about it. The boys have a sort of sunken bath behind the house. It's as large as a baby swimming pool, with showers rigged up and everything. It's great!"

Half an hour later, wearing cool chiffon and dainty shoes, mona descended the stairs. Lottie had reached the terrace just before her and sat at a small table, the silver service in front of her, quizzing the boys about their tea.

Josie, the maid, arrived with tinkling ice. mona supposed that this must have been brought from a distant port at great expense until Lottie explained that the planches were from the kitchen.

She had made a second tour of investigation and was prepared to answer questions.

Barry and Steve, in fresh linens and sleek of hair, rose as mona approached. It was cool on the terrace. The glare of the sunlight was softened and a gentle breeze played.

"Tea, mona," Lottie inquired. She was perfectly at home here. Hot or cold?"

"Cold," mona decided.

"I don't see how anyone can drink hot tea here," observed Lottie. "There is lemon or lime. Which do you prefer?"

"Let me arrange her place, Lottie," Barry said. He put down a plate of tiny cakes and took possession of the tea table. "I know what mona likes."

It was a small courtesy yet it made mona's heart leap as she watched. The long months seemed suddenly to have faded. She had never—really—been married to Barry—until here they were—she and Lottie, Barry and Steve on an outing just as they had been so often before.

Things would be all right, she was sure. Barry would forgive her for everything. Since time very soon she could explain all that had happened. Now she would relax and enjoy herself.

Her dream was broken abruptly. Barry held the tumbler decked with mint out to the maid and, indicating mona, said, "Give this to Mrs. Townsend."

"Mrs. Townsend! He might have said nothing, leaving it to the maid's deduction whom the glass was intended for, or he might have handed her the glass himself."

Mrs. Townsend! That name which might have been so sweet was a reproach.

They heard a pounding on the carpeted stairs, a sudden clatter on the veranda, and bud, freshly dressed and glowing after his recent swim, joined them.

"Did you have a good swim, bud?"

"No tea, thanks. Yes, I had a fine swim." To Barry he said, "I'm going down to the plane. Is that o. k.?"

Bud nodded and bud flung himself into the rickety automobile and started off.

He called back, "Bobby Jones won't like you if you keep landing on the fairway, Barry! How's the airport coming?"

"Not very well. Maybe I'll get you to handle it," Barry answered amiably.

"Any time you say," called bud. "He drives well, doesn't he?"

"He whistles him, doesn't he?" said mona, watching him career out through the gate on a single wheel and disappearing in a funnel of green trees beyond.

"He does everything well," Barry replied. "It was a great idea to send him down here. Been a big help to us. I guess bud was just about at the turning point. He was all set to amount to something—either something pretty fine or just the opposite."

mona nodded in agreement. "It was awfully good of you," she said softly. "I don't believe I've ever thanked you—"

"Oh, we've had our thanks all right, bud himself, looking as he does today, is thanks enough."

There was coolness in Barry's tone and mona felt it. She was silent for some time.

Then after a little she said, "Does he handle any of the selling for you?"

Barry nodded again. "He does and he's clever at it, too. There's a man named Horton—"

"Horton? Could Barry know about that? Had he seen bud? Then she understood that of course he had while she was sleeping.

"There's a man named Horton who's a good customer. He gave me a tough price for uncut diamonds because bud—"

"Why don't you let bud tell her that, boy?" suggested Steve casually. He turned to mona. "Barry is always bragging about bud. I tell him the boy's head will be turned."

The scent of the honeysuckle came nearer and nearer. Lottie could hear the sea splashing and crashing along the beach, Lottie, rising, beckoned Steve to join her at the edge of the terrace.

mona was alone with Barry at last. What was he going to say? How would he begin? With reproaches? With a demand for explanations?

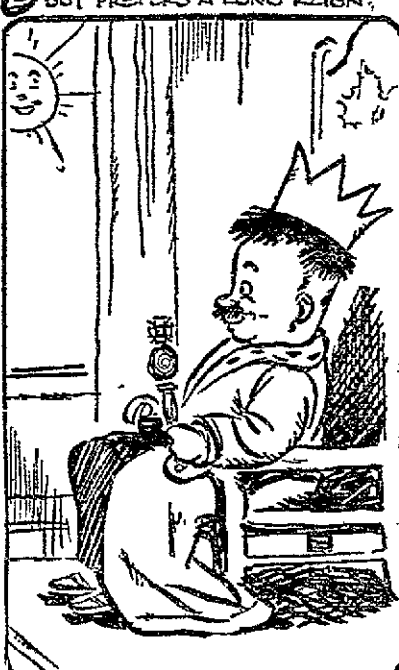

Barry, too, rose from his chair. "Don't take Lottie away," he called. "I promised the girls we'd take them for a drive. We ought to be starting or it will be too late. The rooster is in order, isn't it?"

"Never better!" Steve agreed. Cupping his hands together and raising them to his mouth, he shouted, "Oh, boy! Bring around the rooster!"

High School Cagers Open Home Season With Neenah Five

Red Rockets Handicapped By Illness

Reserve Teams From Two Schools Will Show In Preliminary

APPLETON high school basketball team will swing into action tonight with Neenah high school quintet in a non-conference battle for both schools. Appleton is in the Fox River Valley conference and Neenah in the Northeastern Wisconsin. The game will be played at Armory G.

Influenza promises to play a big part in the game. Coach Joseph Shields of Appleton has been hors du combat for the last couple days because of an attack of the flu but last night managed to shake it long enough to direct his squad for a few minutes. Coach Merlin Seims of the reserves has been drilling the Orange in the absence of Shields.

Coach Ole Jorgenson of Neenah's Red Rockets probably wishes he also had been ill this week instead of a half dozen or so of his best cagers. He probably figures the squad might win without him but without his squad he can't very well cop. At least that's the way Ole will feel if things go like they did the other night at New London when Neenah took a trimming that was new in high school cage annals.

Two Games Carded
Two games are carded for the evening program, the first to start at about 7 o'clock and to feature the Appleton reserve squad and the Neenah reserves. Appleton lost their initial start at East Green Bay a week ago.

Appleton this year has one of the largest and most versatile squads in several years. Only two of the boys are veteran performers of the 1931 and 1932 championship teams, but the others have played and learned a lot of basketball and are finding variety competition much to their liking.

Indications are that Coach Shields will send a small, fast team against Neenah. The little fellows moving a mile a minute were supposed to have bothered Neenah much at New London and Shields may decide that he'll try the same stunt.

If the idea is carried out the chances are that Rooney and Van Ryzin will start at the forward positions with Don Johnston jumping center. Capt. Bobbie Rule and Jim Murphy will be the guards. They are the veterans on the squad. If tall talent should be necessary then Johnston will move to forward with Rooney and Cliff Burton or Chuck Arnold or Wallace will go to center. Other reserves on the squad are Winter, Cy Burton, and Bowers.

The admission price for tonight is 40 cents and tax free, according to high school authorities. Balcony seats again will be reserved at 20 cents each.

Pitt Panthers Get 2 Hour Workout

Sutherland Pleased as Tucson Snow Melts, Field Dries

Tucson, Ariz.—(P)—A change in the weather today made Coach Jack Sutherland of the Pittsburgh Panthers forget his sorrow of leaving the smoky city and its wintry climate.

Created by a snow-covered field on the first day of practice, Sutherland wondered why he had left Pittsburgh to come here to train for the Rose Bowl game Jan. 2 with the University of Southern California.

However, Sutherland was all smiles today as he was able to send his squad through a long workout yesterday afternoon on a dry field, the sun having quickly melted the snow and dried the turf. The head coach of the Panthers indicated he was not interested in the offers of the Los Angeles, San Diego and Redlands, Calif., chambers of commerce to provide suitable training fields in those cities.

The Panthers plan to remain in Tucson until the day before the tournament of roses game. It was raining here when they arrived Wednesday night and at that time Sutherland indicated he would move into California to train his squad if the weather didn't improve.

The Panthers went through a public two and a quarter hour drill yesterday afternoon. They stressed defense tactics.

Junior Hockey Loop Organized

Six Teams Entered; Still Seek Clubs From 2nd, 6th Wards

Organization of the Ponr. Junior Ice Hockey league was announced today with six teams entered. There still is a chance for several clubs to enter before league play starts next week. Teams from the Second and Fifth wards are being sought so that every ward in the city will be represented. Names of players on all squads must be filed with the sport shop by Saturday night.

Rules set by sponsors of the league are that the season limit will be 20 years. Each team will have a squad of not more than 15 players. Periods will be of 10 minutes duration and games will be played

O. K. Taxis won but one game in Eagles bowling circles the other half hold a one game margin in standings. Stark Hotels took the Taxies over the bumps. The Hotels won the first game with R. Wark's 181 but slipped a couple notches and lost the second tilt. The third game went to the Hotels when the Taxies did the skidding and showed too many low counts. Only one 500 total was shown in the entire match, a 504 by E. Knight.

Koch Glasses won two from the Graef Lumber company. In the first game the Glasses won with one man on hand, A. Boehm, who rolled a 182. A couple more boys arrived for the second game and the Glasses copped with L. Blaschke's 179 setting the pace. The Lumbermen won the third game with a 216 by Hy Strutz and 196 by A. Schiltz.

F. O. E. took two from the Eagle Specials. A 17 average and a "blind" average beat the Specials in the first two games, the second by three pins. In the third game the Specials won with 190 by Eichinger and 178 by A. Fischer.

Sell Specials won the first game from the Modern Cleaners with F. Sorenson's 142, lost the second and took the third with R. Crane's 197. The best Cleaner scores were 131 averages of B. Welhouse.

In a postponed game, Eagle Specials won two from the Graef Lumbermen. M. Derrfus has a 222 in the only Graef victory.

MATCH GAME

Pioneer Inns won two games and the match from the Kraft Cheese in a game rolled on Arcade alleys. E. Wegner had 248, 192, 192-630 for the Inns. O. Strutz 219, 166, 204-589, and S. Tornow 229, 192, 190-611. For the Cheese, H. Brock showed a 257 in one game and R. Currie a 266 in another, by the highest series count was Currie's 589 from games of 190, 172, 236. The team scores follow:

Although most of the teams were depleted by Christmas shopping and the fact stores were open, the Women's City bowling league staggered through its regular games last night at Arcade alleys. Hoppy Pkettles won three straight and lead the loop by two games. The Appleton Specials were the losers. The Specials had only two keggers on hand. For the Pkettles L. Jenness had 195, 142, 195-533, L. Klebe-nov 195, 163, 145-504, and G. Koer-ner 194, 147, 159-504.

Arcades won two from the Hockett Shoes. In the first Arcade win R. Ulrich had a 170 total. Hocketts won the second game with a 183 by G. Johnson and A. Mundinger's 178. The third game went to the Arcades with R. Ulrich's 180.

Belling Drugs won the other match from the Watts and Volts, 183 and 179. None of the latter team showed. For the Drugs Brietenbach had 197, 160, 193-550.

ELKS ROLL TONIGHT

Outside of the Elk league which rolls on Friday nights, all league bowling activities at the club alleys have been suspended during the holidays. League kegling will be resumed Jan. 4. However, the alleys will be open to use by the public except on Friday nights. Bowling lessons can be obtained at any time by application to Clarence Currie, alley manager.

On Tuesday and Thursday evenings on Jones park rinks. Winners in the league race will receive medals. Captains of teams that have entered and coaches from the Blue streak hockey team assigned to them are as follows: First ward, Pat Johns, captain, Coach Chet Davis; Third ward, Frank Brum, captain, Coach Bill Kiley; Third ward, A. Babino, captain, Coach J. Babino; Third ward, Neuland, captain, Coach Carl Neuland; Fourth ward, Harold Hartzheim, captain, Coach "Kitty" Kitzinger; Sixth ward, Krause, captain, Coach "Lefty" Kranzsch.

GOLDENBERG IN MAT GO

MILWAUKEE.—(P)—Charles (Buck) Goldenberg, former University of Wisconsin football star, tonight will wrestle Andrew Anderson, of Minneapolis, in one of the feature matches of a card which will include Jimmy Demetral, formerly of Madison, and Steve Balaz, Milwaukee.

Shortest Wrestler
Abe Coleman, 5 feet 7 inches tall, is the shortest wrestler in the professional business. He weighs just a shade under 200 pounds.

College Grid Game Survives Depression Best

Wrestling and Golf Also Manage to Hold Their Followers

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK.—(P)—Although intercollegiate football and professional baseball generally are credited by the country's sports experts with most successful survival during the box-office hardships of 1932, a striking feature of the Associated Press poll today is the testimony to strides made by two sports which have nothing in common—golf and professional wrestling.

"Golf seems to have survived the economic slump better than any other sport in the southwest," observes one critic, whose view is echoed in the east, middle west and far west by those who see the royal and ancient game now brought down to the level of the "ordinary pocketbook."

The depression is considered definitely to have brought about a boom in public links golf, where the erstwhile members of an exclusive country club, no longer able to pay high membership fees and with time on his hands, now is finding enjoyment rubbing elbows or trading shots with the catch-as-catch-can player. Independence, Kansas, reports that golf, in that locality, "has made a noticeable progress while other sports have declined or had difficulty in maintaining the standards of other years."

Grunters Successful
Sports editors of the east and middle west, while some contend it is a "racket," nevertheless assert wrestling has survived conditions and continued to profit, while boxing has slipped backward. They base this on the claim that "wrestlers have been smart enough to give the fans and exciting show for reasonable prices," that the grapplers are content to work often and on a percentage basis, also that they are better organized for business.

In the east, wrestling is ranked next to college football as the sport which has best reacted to conditions of the past year. Baseball tops the list only in the middle west. College football leads in the far west and south as well as east. Golf runs second to football in the south and far west where it is more of a year-around sport.

The rating of the sports best surviving or re-acting to the depression, based on votes in the Associated Press poll: College football, 65; baseball, 48; golf, 35; professional wrestling, 34; tennis and professional hockey, 14 each; boxing, 12; basketball and horse-racing, 11 each; professional football, 10.

Mack Celebrates 70th Birthday

Veteran Boss of Athletics Has Been in Baseball For 50 Years

Philadelphia.—(P)—Connie Mack thinks the experience he has gained in the first 70 years of his life ought to help him develop more pennant winners in the future. Seventy years old today, in baseball for 50 years, a manager for 39 and pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics for 31, the tall, lean leader scoffs at the idea of retirement.

"Where work is entirely the exercise of judgment," Mack said, "each year adds new experience and makes a man better fitted for the next one. I'll have more experience on which to base decisions next year than I had this year."

The boys on the bench, Connie said, will decide when he is to retire. "When you handle a team of 25 young men," he declared, "you can't fool them. When my players begin to whisper among themselves that Mack is not what he used to be, I'm going to hear those whispers. Then I'll know that it's time for me to consider getting into the background."

It was in 1882 that Cornelius McGillicuddy beat Santa Claus to East Brookfield, Mass., by two days. He planned to spend his birthday anniversary quietly, making his customary daily trip to the office in Philadelphia where he read through a mountainous pile of birthday and Christmas greeting cards, telegrams and letters.

Gillett Highs Quit N. E. Loop

Will Join Recently Organized Marinette-Oconto League

Gillett high school, smallest in the point of enrollment of any member of the Northwestern Wisconsin conference, has relinquished its membership to join the Marinette-Oconto County conference, it has been announced. In recent years, the school had not competed in football against other conference schools but had been a rival in basketball, although the limited number of boys available put the northern school at a disadvantage against the schools with more material to draw from.

Another matter of interest to N. E. Wisconsin league schools is the information from Algoma that football may not be played by the lake shore high school next fall. The Algoma school authorities have asked the other schools to hold their foot-

Babe Reinstated But It's Probably too Late

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—(P)—It is up to Mildred Babe Didrikson herself whether she turns professional or keeps here present ranking as the outstanding woman amateur athlete—and nobody knew her plans today.

The Texas wonder was cleared of charges of professionalism and reinstated to amateur status standing through the registration committee of the southern Amateur Athletic Union yesterday, just after Didrikson she had announced plans to turn professional.

Lawrence Di Benedetto, chairman of the A. A. U. committee, said the organization had received Miss Didrikson's resignation, but her athletic future "is up to her" now.

Today, Miss Didrikson was somewhere en route to Chicago with her sister, Mrs. Esther Elam, and the trip lent credence to the belief she meant just what she said when she announced, before the A. A. U. committee acted finally, that she was tired of the investigation of her status and had accepted professional contracts.

The charges of professionalism were based on an accusation that Miss Didrikson had endorsed an automobile for advertising purposes. She denied the authorization and the A. A. U. committee, after examining evidence in the case, decided that was the situation—that the advertisement was used without her permission.

Immediately, the A. A. U. decided to restore Miss Didrikson's amateur standing, but meanwhile she had resigned her position with a Texas insurance agency, announced plans to turn professional, and started for Chicago. "I've never played a waiting game," she said, "the A. A. U. has simply been too slow."

Today the sports world wondered whether the A. A. U. decision might not result in a change of her decision to turn professional, although she had said she planned such a step early next year even if she hadn't been suspended.

Miss Didrikson has set numerous sports records, starred in the Olympics and was selected the outstanding woman athlete of 1932 in the Associated Press sports writers poll.

Roosevelt Kids Beat Faculty in Basketball Tilt

Lightweight Championship Honors Won by Aces; Score 5-3

Perhaps it's a good thing vacations start in Roosevelt junior high school today for certain members of the faculty are not really enjoying themselves since their basketball team took a trimming from the Ninth graders last night. The score was 19 and 18 for the youngsters.

Seventeen fouls proved to be the downfall of the teachers who apparently are slowing up and can't get away with the stuff they used to work. Or perhaps it was the excellent refereeing of that honest of honest officials, Ken Laird, who saw to it that the little fellows weren't swindled out of their rights. At any rate the faculty produced 17 fouls with Guy Barlow the biggest offender with seven miscues and Pickett second with five.

The preliminary to the contest was a championship game in the lightweight class between the Aces and the Trojans. The Aces won the decision 5 and 3.

Irish Seek 20th Win on Hardwood

Battle Purdue, a Team It Never Has Been Able to Beat

Chicago.—(P)—Notre Dame will try to stretch its basketball winning string to 20 games tonight against Purdue, which it never has been able to defeat on the hardwood, although the Irish have made seven attempts.

The current Notre Dame streak was started immediately after the Boiler-makers won their annual clash at South Bend last season. Tonight's battle will be staged at Lafayette and either Purdue's perfect record against the Irish, or Notre Dame's string will be ruined.

Notre Dame may be without captain John Baldwin and Al McGuff, guards, who have been on the sick list.

Notre Dame's season record includes victories over Albion, Illinois Wesleyan and Northwestern, the latter by a 28 to 25 count, while Purdue has trounced Miami and St. Louis university.

One other game will finish the Big Ten schedule for the week, Nebraska meeting Minnesota at Minneapolis.

ball dates with Algoma open, however, until a final decision is reached as to whether football will be continued next year.

If Algoma quits football, it will be the second school of the conference to take such a step, as the Two Rivers high school announced a short time ago it would retain the gridiron game only as an intramural sport. Algoma high is certain to keep on with competitive basketball, however, as Two Rivers is doing.

Ralph Greenleaf Retains Cue Title

Undefeated in 20 Consecutive Championship Games in 2 Years

NEW YORK.—(P)—Undefeated in 20 consecutive championship games over a span of two years, Ralph Greenleaf of New York stood today the unchallenged king of the nation's pocket billiard players.

Greenleaf brushed aside Edwin Rudolph of Cleveland, 125 to 22, last night to finish the 1932 championship tournament with nine successive victories and retain the title he won last year with a 14-1 sweep in 11 games.

Rudolph, who defeated Greenleaf in the deciding game of the 1930 championship, never had a chance last night. The champion pulled in to an early lead and finally ended the match with successive runs of 21, 34 and 44 in the ninth, tenth and eleventh innings.

Not only did Greenleaf defeat every one of his nine rivals in the current tournament but he did so without being seriously threatened at any time. The closest any rival got to the champion was the 125-78 score to which Pasquale Natali of Chicago held him on Wednesday.

Rudolph's defeat dropped the Cleveland into a tie for second place with young Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del., and Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia.

West Point Grid Card Announced

Big Games are With Yale, Harvard, Irish, Navy and Illinois

West Point, N. Y.—(P)—Ten states—Georgia, Virginia, Delaware, Illinois, Connecticut, Iowa, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Indiana, are represented in the opposition Army's 1933 football team will be called upon to face.

The schedule of ten games, released by Major P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, yesterday, is one of the hardest in cadet gridiron history with major games against Illinois, Yale, Harvard, Navy and Notre Dame.

Five games will be played at West Point and five away. Illinois will be played in the municipal stadium at Cleveland, Yale at New Haven; Harvard at Cambridge, and Notre Dame at New York. The Navy game also probably will be played in New York although no definite site has been selected.

The schedule:
Sept. 30—Macon of Georgia; Oct. 7, Virginia Military Institute; Oct. 14, Delaware; Oct. 21, Illinois at Cleveland; Oct. 28, Yale at New Haven; Nov. 4, Coe of Iowa; Nov. 11, Harvard at Cambridge; Nov. 18, Pennsylvania Military college; Nov. 25, Navy (site not selected); Dec. 2, Notre Dame at New York.

'Way Up There
Marquette University of Milwaukee has 12 basketball candidates this year who are six feet or more in height. William Mangano, 6 feet 6, is the tallest man on the squad.

That's Batting 'Em In
George Sisler, in a game against Washington on July 11, 1925, batted in seven runs in two consecutive innings.

First Flag in 1909
San Francisco, led by Ernest "Kid" Mohler, won its first Coast League baseball pennant in 1909.

R. and S. Shoes won their second game in the Industrial league last night at the Y. M. C. A. but it was far from an impressive exhibition. The score was 28 and 25 and the losers were the Rechner Cleaners. In the other league game the Mohawks made their debut in league circles and won from the Groth Cleaners by a score of 18 and 14.

Rechner took a 6 and 3 lead over the R. and S. Shoes in the first quarter of their tussle and increased it to 10 and 8 at the half. In the third quarter the Shoes scored seven points, the Cleaners six and the score stood 16 and 15 for the Cleaners. During the fourth period the Shoes tied the score at 22 all and edged a 28 and 25 verdict in the overtime. R. Versteegen's guarding for the Cleaners featured the game.

The Mohawks showed a collection of cage stars from other league teams of past seasons but were forced to do some tall battling in the last period to pull the game from the fire. Taking a 4 and 3 lead in the first quarter, the Hawks trailed 12 and 6 at the half when the Cleaners stepped out. During the third-quarter the Cleaners got but two points while the Mohawks scored six. In the last period the Hawks collected six points and held the Groths scoreless. The final count was 18 and 14 for the Hawks.

New York—(P)—The stock market again lapsed into a state of quiescence today after yesterday's selling flurry. On the whole the market was steady, in listless pre-holiday trading.

Despite a fairly cheerful tone in the weekend business reviews, traders were unwilling to use the lifting of the selling pressure of the previous session to try for a rally in view of the approach of the holiday weekend. The market was an extremely apathetic affair.

A few issues encountered further selling. Case and Santa Fe lost about a point. Johns Manville sagged nearly a point after yesterday's recovery. The bottling stocks weakened for a time. Crown Cork dropped about 4, then recovered roughly half its loss. Owens-Illinois Glass lost about a point. Continental Can was an isolated strong spot, up 2. North American Aviation was sent up nearly a point. New York Central and Union Pacific, weak features yesterday, held about steady. U. S. Steel, American Telephone and several leaders were about unchanged.

The moderately cheerful tone of the market was reflected in the fact that the market was not particularly interested in the prospects for 1933, and finds the outlook rather obscure. Christmas trade was said to have taken a fair spurt. The New York Federal Reserve bank, however, reported that department store sales in the metropolitan area in the first half of December had been about 24 per cent under last year.

The action of the bottling stocks was variously explained, but seemed to reflect withdrawal of professional support, the probable correction of the beer bill in the senate seemed highly conjectural. The governments winter wheat crop estimate, indicating the smallest crop in years, may have been partly responsible for the selling of Santa Fe. Some broke thought, too, that the market was still under some pressure from sales to establish losses for income tax purposes.

Chicago—(P)—Surging upward again, hog prices renewed the climb out of the trough with renewed vigor today.

Shortened receipts were largely responsible for initial strength imparted to the market, but buying, thought limited in extent, was extremely aggressive. The activity sent quotations up 10 to 20 cents with light hogs leading the advance. The early top was placed at $3.40, an advance of 20 cents, although a part load of light hogs sold at $3.45.

All interests were represented in the buying. Receipts around the market circle showed a sharp drop compared with last Friday, the total being but 59,900 head against 84,200. Prices ranged from steady at Cincinnati to as much as 25 cents higher at East St. Louis.

Despite a slim run of only 1,000 head, cattle trade was semi-demoralized with bids only 25 cents lower and in many cases half a dollar. As a result, commission men planned to hold most steers over for next week's trading. Demand for all classes was narrow.

Major packers received only one double deck load of lambs on direct billing and were forced to seek supply in the open market. Eastern buyers had enough orders on hand to insure a firm market as the run was light, receipts being 3,000 head fewer than advance estimates.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Knights of Columbus ladies held their annual Christmas party in their clubrooms on W. Wisconsin-ave Thursday afternoon. The clubrooms were decorated with baskets of evergreen and colored pine cones. In one of the rooms was a large, brilliantly decorated Christmas tree, covering a crib, depicting the scene at Bethlehem. Christmas carols were sung and all of the program took place with the use of candle light. Mrs. E. R. Landreman and Mrs. John Pfeifer arranged the program.

Featuring the program was the appearance of a snow-covered stranger, who played the old organ and sang old-fashioned songs. The stranger, played by Mrs. Den Burns concluded her song with singing of "Home, Sweet Home," the entire assembly joining in the chorus. Cards were played and prizes were awarded in bridge to Mrs. Lester Brenzel, Mrs. E. G. Driessen, and Mrs. Henry H. Christmas Mailing Volume Is Smaller Kaukauna—Postmaster Adolph R. Mill today estimated the volume of Christmas mail to be one-half of the volume handled during the same period last year. "The work at the office is handicapped because several members of the staff are missing. The postmaster said there will be mail delivery Saturday afternoon but on Sunday and Monday only letters and packages bearing special delivery stamps would be handled.

Kaukauna Quint Beaten Badly by Brillion, 31-14

Defeat Marks Second of Year at Hands of Little Nine Leaders

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school's basketball team was hopelessly outclassed here Thursday evening as the invading Brillion quint rung up a 31 to 14 victory. It was the second defeat for the Kaukauna team by the leaders of the Little Nine conference, and was the seventh consecutive victory to be marked up by the Brillion aggregation.

The Brillion cagers showed a fast, smooth-working offense that kept the Kaws on edge all during the fracas. Using their height to advantage the invaders counted buckets almost at will. Enneper, forward, Reineck, center, and Huenefeld, forward, led the offensive play. Enneper tipped in five buckets, while Reineck scored three baskets and a gift toss. Huenefeld converted eight points with field goals.

Showing little regard for the low-ceilinged gymnasium, the Brillion team annexed a basket after basket from distance and close up. They clanked together on plays and worked hard under the basket. The Kaws showed a poor eye for the hoop, several times missing the board. Illness has disabled the squad, and two regulars were missing from the lineup. Helitz just returned to the squad, this week after being confined to his home with illness and Grogan and Block were missing because of injuries and illness.

Enneper, Brillion forward, started scoring immediately after the start of the first period. His gift toss on a personal foul by Schermittler, Kaws guard, was successful. The Crimson and White elated team added two points on a perfectly executed play with Enneper tipping the field goal. Huenefeld quickly added another short shot and Kuehl sent in a gift shot to set Brillion ahead, 6 to 0. Wolf scored a free toss on Kuehl's personal foul and Kaukauna trailed, 6 to 1, at the end of the first quarter.

Another gift by Stanelle still left the Kaws trailing 6 to 2 as the second period started. Enneper added another field goal and Huenefeld put in two more buckets to set the score at 12 to 2. Sischo was given a gift and Vils converted the first Kaw basket on an angle shot. Reineck scored a bucket for Brillion and Stanelle was fouled, adding another free shot. Reineck added a gift toss and the Kaws trailed 15 to 6 at halftime.

Reineck dropped in two field goals and Enneper added another to give Brillion six points in the third quarter. Dix scored from beneath the basket for Kaukauna and Stanelle added three gifts, but the Kaws trailed 24 to 11 as Huenefeld scored from the field and Enneper converted a gift shot. The period ended with Kaukauna on the short end. Coach Little's squad was showing its inexperience as the Brillion cagers passed the ball about within their own territory.

In the final quarter the Brillion team faked a stall and with the breaks offered by the inexperienced Kaws, Enneper dribbled through the Kaw defense to score. Kuehl sent in another about the middle of the period and Enneper scored the final bucket after Kleiber's gift. Wolf dropped in a field goal and added a gift toss when fouled beneath the basket to end the scoring. The preliminary was won by the Brillion Bess team by a 13 to 8 score over the Kaukauna Bess.

Children Makes Gifts to Present to Each Other

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—Though money may have been lacking this year, gifts were distributed as usual among school children this year.

This year, however, teachers ruled that all gifts should be made by the donors themselves. Help from parents was in many cases necessary, but the gifts were homemade, and one gift was a gun fashioned of wood and equipped with a trigger which clicked. A little girl received a delicately fashioned wooden box, hinged neatly and stained a soft green. This was made by a little boy's father, but the painting was done by the boy himself.

Little girls received aprons, home made, and there were small doll pillows. There were handkerchief holders, scrap books, note books and pads. There was no end of real Christmas spirit, and the packages which were opened following the Christmas parties given in the grade schools of the city following the traditional Christmas programs to which parents were invited.

There were also gifts for parents, made by the children as part of their project work, and there were gifts to the children from teachers, and to teachers from the pupils. Schools closed for the holidays and by Thursday night nearly all of the teachers living away from the city were enroute to their homes to remain until after New Year's day.

$20,000 Borrowed By City in Month

November Receipts Total $52,800 — Disbursements are $62,500

Kaukauna—It was necessary for the city to borrow $20,000 during November, according to the report of Mary Hooyman, city treasurer. The first loan was for $10,000 on Nov. 4 and the second for a similar amount was made on Nov. 23. The money was borrowed from local banks.

Receipts during the month totaled $52,877.11, including the two loans. Disbursements were $62,558.29. The cash balance on Nov. 1 was $59,800.21 and on Dec. 1 the amount left in the fund was $50, 119.03.

Money borrowed was placed in the contingent fund, which showed an overdraft of $23,174.38 on Nov. 1. Disbursements amounted to $4,830.36 and besides the loan only $72.80 was recorded in receipts, the overdraft being $9,931.94 on Dec. 1. The north road district recorded disbursements of $559.46 and the cash balance left was $15,938.85. In the south road fund there were disbursements of $523.77 and receipts of $1,273.34, the overdraft being decreased to $64,417.13. Disbursements of $22.98 in the north sewer fund left a balance of $394.98. The south sewer fund showed receipts of $153.72 and disbursements of $15, leaving an overdraft of $10,835.16.

Poor fund receipts were $160 and $2,327.93 was used from the fund. The cash balance was $1,637.96 on Dec. 1.

Electrical department records showed receipts of $28,708.20 and disbursements of $26,540.07. The balance left in the fund was $77, 877.94. In the water department receipts were recorded at $299.70 and $2,457.63 was used leaving a balance of $13,975.95.

The school fund showed receipts of $2,212 and $9,240.92 was disbursed, leaving a balance of $8,898.38 in the fund. The vocational school fund showed no receipts and $1,057.77 was used leaving a balance of $785.41.

Plan to Distribute Christmas Baskets

Special to Post-Crescent
Sherwood—A meeting of the women of Harrison, Sherwood, High Cliff and Darby, who are on the committee to distribute Christmas baskets among the needy, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Conneling Benzschwal at High Cliff Tuesday evening. Miss Florence Hoesly of Chilton, nurse of Calumet-on, was present and gave a talk on the work the Red Cross and other organizations are doing. She also gave suggestions on the welfare work to be done for the needy for the next few months. After the business session a social hour was held by playing five hundred and schafkopf. George Schaefer and John Mumm were the prize winners.

Parochial Students Start Annual Recess

Continue Collection Of Articles for Poor

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—Citizens will have until late Friday to add to parcels and baskets which on Saturday will be distributed to poor homes in the city. Any additions will be sent fully to the committee in charge and by those who will give their services throughout the remaining days before Sunday checking names, apportioning candy and nuts, and wrapping gifts for children. Gifts will be dispensed by parents themselves, and each family will be able to enjoy the holiday season.

Homemade food, such as candy, canned fruit, pickles, jelly, cookies or cake, in fact anything which can add something to the surprise element and holiday spirit, will be welcomed it is pointed out. Boy scouts will be at the city hall on Saturday to give their assistance to the distribution of baskets.

Need $150 More to Get Free Chest Clinic

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—Lacking $150 in the receipts needed to insure a free chest clinic in New London, the committee in charge of the Christmas seal sale, said that others who have not contributed to the fund will do so before the end of the month. Only $100 has thus far been received from the sale of the anti-tuberculosis stamps, according to Mrs. N. R. Demming, chairman of the committee representing the New London Civic Improvement. Many envelopes containing stamps will remain out and holders of these are urged to either send payment of the stamps to Mrs. Demming.

In order that citizens of this community may derive the benefit of the free chest clinics, which, through the sale of stamps at the holiday period, has been available at no cost, save for the annual contribution to the stamp fund, it will be necessary that the full quota asked for be raised, it is pointed out.
